

BROTHERHOOD CONVENTION GETS DOWN TO BUSINESS

Annual Reports of the National Officers Submitted Today.

A FEW GOOD SUGGESTIONS

Made By President Hughes Regarding Policies For the Future.

MORE WORKERS TO BE INCLUDED

In the Organization if His Advice Is Taken—The Eastern Question an Important One And Will Receive the Convention's Attention.

This morning's session—the first real business meeting of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning by President A. S. Hughes.

The credential committee made a partial report at the beginning of the meeting, and they were continued. It is hardly likely that the committee will have finished their work before the Wednesday morning meeting.

The committee on rules and order of business, the only other matter arranged for yesterday, reported that the hours to govern the convention would be from 9 to 12 and from 2 to 5.

Owing to the many changes made in the representation of the various unions it was found impossible for the president to make the appointments of his other committees, and it was deferred to the afternoon meeting.

At the very beginning the disposition to dispose of the business in the shortest time possible was manifested, and as a result the reports of President Hughes and Vice Presidents Hutchins and Jackson were read and received during the forenoon session.

President Hughes' report was a voluminous document, covering 33 pages of typewriting. In it he reviewed the work of the past year coming under his jurisdiction, and made a great many suggestions which experience had taught would be of benefit to the organization. The necessity for a more thorough organization of the various crafts connected with the industry was covered at length. The finishers and jiggers' assistants should be a part of the Brotherhood, and the president covered the subjects in a thorough and comprehensive manner. The importance of this move was made clear by reference to the recent difficulty involving the warehouse women, in which it was shown that so important was their department that every branch of the industry was tied up in consequence. It is safe to say that few if any officers could have covered the ground taken in by the report of President Hughes with the same degree of brevity, and at the same time embody the volume of information contained in the document presented this morning.

Vice Presidents Hutchins, of Trenton, and Jackson, of Akron, submitted their reports, which, while not covering the wide scope contained in that of the president, will be of considerable value to the convention. They consisted in the main of information gathered through their connection with the organization, and suggestions as to the future policy of the same.

The report of Secretary Duffy was read at the beginning of the afternoon session and was well received. George Smith, of local union No. 9, Kilmen, East Liverpool, was made assistant secretary and will aid Secretary Duffy throughout the convention.

The entertainment committee has provided for the amusement of the delegates this evening, and they will be well taken care of.

The convention will be composed of about 115 delegates when all have reported and been placed on the rolls. This is about the usual number.

A VITAL QUESTION

WITH WHICH THE CONVENTION WILL HAVE TO DEAL.

The Eastern Problem Forcing Itself to the Front—Its Serious Phases.

One of the most vital questions with which the eleventh annual convention

Two years ago when the national convention was held in Trenton the indications were favorable for the thorough organization of that district into the Brotherhood. Not long afterward, however, the interest waned and by the time the Wheeling meeting was held last year it was said by those not friendly to the Brotherhood that there was not a corporal's guard of the loyal ones left. This was not true, but the officials of the national organization realized that it was not as it should be, and steps were taken at that time to bring the eastern men into line. The result has been an improvement to a certain extent, but the condition of affairs is anything but satisfactory at the present time.

The seceders in the east have annoyed the officials greatly during the past year, and the unreliable reports sent out by irresponsible correspondents have but aggravated the situation.

In the enforcement of the uniform scale in the west, which means that eight-tenths of the pottery plants in the United States have been brought under the same regulation, the N. B. of O. P. has accomplished something that had the effort been made by any others than the men who represented the Brotherhood, would never have been carried to a successful issue. For this reason it is a matter which should and doubtless does interest every member of the organization to make it a part of the business of this convention to adopt measures that will ultimately result in the thorough organization of the potters of the east.

Methods without number have been suggested from time to time during the past year for the accomplishment of this end, but they could not be put into execution for the reason that those who had the matter in hand could go so far and no farther without authority from the proper source. Every representative at the present meeting, if he has taken the trouble to post himself, realizes the seriousness of the question, and the responsibility which rests upon him as a member of the body that must deal with the subject.

There is another phase of the question which must be taken into consideration, and that is the fact that the manufacturers have taken advantage of the inability of the Brotherhood to perfect a solid organization in the Trenton district and have confined the enforcement of the uniform list to the west. While the eastern operators are all connected with the United States association, there is a separate combination of the western manufacturers, who hold that there is no argument that could be used which would justify the U. S. association dealing with the Brotherhood looking to a uniform scale in the United States, while conditions remain as they are in the east.

TO FIX FREIGHT RATES

EAST LIVERPOOL MEN TO ATTEND A CHICAGO CONFERENCE.

This City Discriminated Against in Rates on Pottery Products.

H. P. Knoblock and Colonel W. C. Watson, representing the pottery district, which comprises this city, Steubenville, Wheeling, Wellsville, East Palestine, Sebring, Fallston and Canonsburg, left yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where they will meet a freight committee of the western and southwestern railroads in the interest of the earthenware business of the district.

Of late this district has been discriminated against in the way of freight rates, the goods of England being laid down at interior points at ridiculous low figures, thus making it hard for the manufacturers to place their products on the market. It is thought a satisfactory agreement will be reached.

POTTERS' PICNIC A BIG SUCCESS

It Was Attended By Thousands and Was An Occasion of Much Enjoyment.

A GOOD BASEBALL GAME

Between Unions 4 And 12—The Pressers Came Off Victorious Without Difficulty—Other Features of the Day at the Park.

The annual picnic of the National Brotherhood held at Rock Springs yesterday afternoon was a pronounced success, and the manner in which the crowd enjoyed itself reflects credit upon those in charge.

About 4,500 people were present, and the organization is a substantial amount to the good for having held the outing. The crowd amused themselves at the many sources of recreation provided by the park people, the dancing pavilion being occupied during the entire afternoon and evening. The crowd was made up in the main of potters and their families, and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyed.

A handicap foot race had been arranged, but owing to the small number of entries it was declared off. This can be attributed to the fact that during the past few years East Liverpool people have allowed this form of sport to go by the board, and that talent is very scarce.

The main feature of the afternoon's enjoyment was the ball game between local union Nos. 4 and 12. The teams had been selected for several weeks and while practice was in progress a great deal of interest has been aroused. The locals are two of the largest in the city and each side had their supporters. When the teams lined up the interest was intense. At the beginning of the game the teams were in this form:

No. 4.	No. 12.
Davis	Catcher
Emmerling	Millward
Smurthwaite	Pitcher
Finch	Winters
Baxter	Godwin
Welsh	First
Denning	Gallagher
Schell	Second
Woods	McNicol
Left	Third
Middle	Daverty
Right	Lynch
	Wooliscroft

In the first few innings the pressers demonstrated their superiority, and in three innings had netted 6 runs to their opponents nothing.

J. Emmerling was a puzzler to the jiggersmen and but five hits were secured from his delivery. He is a left-hander and had the other fellows completely at his mercy until the eighth, when his arm went back and he tossed them in. Even then the jiggersmen could make no headway toward winning.

Finch pitched the last half of the ninth for the pressers, and although he makes no professions of being a twirler and pitched an inferior article of ball, the No. 12 boys could not land on the ball.

Not until their half of the eighth did the jiggersmen reach home, and then the tallies were made off errors. Up to that time it looked very much as though they would be shut out completely and a great many of the rooters left the grounds.

Pressers	1 2 3 0 0 0 2 2—10
Jiggersmen	0 0 0 0 0 0 2 2—4
Hits—Jiggersmen, 5; Pressers, 9.
Errors—Jiggersmen, 3; Pressers, 2.
Umpires—Kennedy and Dobbs.

The crowd that visited the park in the evening was even larger than that of the afternoon, and many who had been present at the ball game came again in the evening to dance or participate in the many other amusements to be found on the grounds.

So far as the delegates were concerned the entertainment of the afternoon proved sufficient and a great majority of them sought their rooms at an early hour in order to be able to take up the work this morning and carry it through in the shortest time possible.

The success of the Brotherhood picnic is largely due to the untiring efforts of the committee in charge. The crowd was well taken care of and not a complaint was heard from any quarter. In addition to this the general fund of the organization will be richer by many dollars.

GIRLS SENTENCED TO THE WORKHOUSE

In Company With Male Friends They Were Arrested By the Police.

May Miller And Jessie Blakeley, of This City, Together With Cliff Christie And W. H. Woolf, of Wellsville, Indulged in a Carousal.

May Miller and Jessie Blakeley, young women, were arrested at an early hour this morning at the corner of Broadway and Cook street, in company with Cliff Christie and H. H. Woolf, both of Wellsville. The roundup was made by Officers Davidson and Stafford.

The girls met their Wellsville friends at the Diamond shortly before midnight. Both were considerably intoxicated and the policemen kept a close watch on them. The quartet started for the East End and the officers followed, keeping close enough to hear what took place and yet being unobserved.

In the vicinity of the Thompson pottery the party sat down and drained the contents of several bottles of beer which they had along with them, and their conduct became so boisterous that several residents of the community were awakened. The officers were about to close in on the disturbers, but before their arrest was effected they had proceeded down the railroad track and reached Broadway before the policemen overtook them.

A few minutes later the quartet was behind the bars of the city prison, where they were held until Mayor Davidson reached his office. All were charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and in the hope of getting off with a light sentence both the men and women pleaded guilty. Christie and Woolf were fined $10 and costs each, and the females were even less fortunate.

Numerous times Mayor Davidson's attention has been called to the actions of the Blakeley girl. She is said to have been making her headquarters in dives, where, with male company she is said to spend the greater part of her time carousing. The Miller girl is a recent recruit, but during her short stay here she has acquired a somewhat unfavorable reputation. The mayor imposed a fine of $25 and costs on each of the women and sentenced them to the Canton workhouse. They will be taken to the institution tomorrow evening.

Christie and Woolf were also committed to the workhouse, but succeeded in raising the money to pay their fines and thus escaped the trip to Canton.

SMALLPOX CASE

Trying to Find the Woman Who Came Here From Lexington, Thought to Be Afflicted.

A representative of the state board of health of Columbus arrived in the city today from Wellsville and is investigating the alleged case of smallpox which was supposed to have originated at Lexington a few weeks ago. The case in question is that of the woman who came to this city from Chester and who was put on a street car by Officer Stafford and sent to Wellsville.

The authorities of the latter city did not learn of the matter until the woman had disappeared, and it is not known what became of her. The Columbus official was unable to get any trace of her, but it is not believed she had the smallpox.

KANAWHA LISK

A 12-Pound Boy Born to East Liverpool Parents on a River Packet.

A 12-pound boy baby was born on the packet Kanawha, Capt. W. E. Roe, several days ago, and Capt. Roe is as proud of the event as the parents of the infant. The mother is Mrs. Richard Lisk, of East Liverpool, and the child was born while the mother was on her way to her old home at New Matamoras, O. She was accompanied by her husband. None of the passengers on the boat would believe that a boy had been born on the steamer until

RATHER THAN BE A BURDEN AN AGED MAN TOOK HIS LIFE

Capt. Roe carried the little fellow through the cabin and showed him to them.

As the vessel lay at the wharf, Chief Clerk George Hunter, of the steamer, discovered two trunks in the wharf-boat as the steamer was about to back out. They were marked Richard Lisk, New Matamoras. Mr. Hunter did not know the Lisks, but was sure that the trunks belonged to passengers on the boat. He held the steamer until he ascertained about them. Sure enough they did belong to passengers on board and when the baby was born, it was discovered that the little tot's outfit was in the trunks.

There happened to be a physician on board and every care was given to the mother and the child. When New Matamoras was reached Mrs. Lisk and her baby were safely put on shore. The father was so well pleased with the treatment received by the captain and his wife that he at once decided to name the child after the packet.

MEN ENCOURAGED

WORKERS CONGRATULATED BY A. A. OFFICIALS.

Good News for Them Is Promised. Discharged Men to Be Reinstated.

An open meeting of the local union of the Amalgamated Association was held yesterday afternoon in Potters' hall at Wellsville. There were seven new names enrolled. George Evans, Charles James and T. M. McGovern, of the carpenters' union, addressed the men.

It was learned last night that word had been indirectly received by all the men who have been discharged that they could go back to work when they were ready. This is in accordance with the word sent out yesterday by President Shaffer that they would not meet the trust representatives until the discharged men are taken back. The following telegram was received from Pittsburgh by Organizer George I. Evans yesterday:

"Cannot leave here by early train tomorrow. Will be with you later in the day with good news. Shaffer sends congratulations. CHAPPELL."

This means that Vice President Chappell wants to be on the scene himself. The fight in the Wellsville mill is the most important of all just now, and if it should be lost the men think the chances for the union elsewhere will be very poor. Chappell also sent the following message to Mr. Evans:

"Shaffer and myself join in congratulations to yourself and brethren of Wellsville for splendid work for A. A. Will not meet trust representatives until men are reinstated."

Another meeting was held today.

WASN'T SMALLPOX

Sanitary Officer Burgess Investigated an Alleged Case of the Dread Disease.

Sanitary Officer Burgess investigated an alleged case of smallpox in the West End yesterday afternoon. The patient, who is a potter, has been ill for several weeks and a few days ago a rash appeared on his face. Mr. Burgess was not aware that a physician had been attending the man, but learned that he was afflicted with a mild case of chickenpox.

The report that he had smallpox is thought to have been started by a woman who happened to go into the house and noticed the eruptions on sick man's face.

STRUCK INSENSIBLE

Charles McKenzie, Aged 10, Hit By a Ball And Badly Hurt.

In the third inning of the ball game at Rock Springs yesterday Charles McKenna, aged 10, was hit by a passed ball and it was thought he had been seriously hurt.

Score 17 to 3.

The Hill Tops and Rovers played a game of base ball at West End park yesterday afternoon, resulting in a score of 17 to 3 in favor of the former.

Robert Whan, Aged 70, Hanged Himself In His Sleeping Room.

DAUGHTER FOUND HIM DEAD

He Resided at Columbiana and Had Formerly Been In the Infirmary.

A NOOSE OF HANDKERCHIEFS

Which He Fastened to His Neck And the Bed Post the Means Used to Strangle Himself—Survived by Four Daughters.

Columbiana, July 9. — (Special).—Rather than be a burden to his daughters, Robert Whan, aged 70, hanged himself here last night. His daughter Dolly, with whom he made his home, found him dead in his bedroom about 7 o'clock this morning.

He had taken handkerchiefs, tied them together and made a noose, which he fastened to his neck, attaching the other to the bed post. Then, leaning forward and bearing his weight upon the noose, he had remained there until he strangled.

Mr. Whan had been in the infirmary for some time. He has four daughters and they decided to support him. He imagined he was a burden to his children and that they desired to get rid of him.

One of his daughters is married and lives in Michigan; another is Mrs. Kreidler, of New Castle, Pa.; another Miss Sue, matron at Marshalsea, the Pittsburg city farm, and the fourth Dolly, who kept house for him.

SETTLED FOR $600

RAILROAD COMPANY PAYS WIDOW THIS SUM.

Man Killed at Salem Crossing—Petition to Reduce a Mother's Allowance.

Lisbon, July 9. — (Special).—Judge Boone yesterday authorized Adella Ryser, administrator of the estate of John A. Ryser, late of Salem, to settle with the Pennsylvania company for $600 for the death of her husband. On January 6, 1900, Ryser was struck by a Ft. Wayne train at a Salem crossing and instantly killed. The railroad company denied liability for the accident, but agreed to pay the sum named rather than stand suit.

Mrs. William Stokesberry, of Elk Run township, some time ago petitioned probate court to reduce the year's allowance of her mother, Sarah Cope, from $1,000 to $250. Israel Cope, of Middleton township, died in 1899 and the appraisers of the estate set aside $1,000 for the widow's support during the following years. Mrs. Cope has a life estate in the 86-acre farm and Mrs. Stokesberry says that $250 in addition to the proceeds of the farm are more than sufficient for a year. Judge Boone reserved his decision.

Kate S. Cooke was appointed administrator of the estate of Osbourne R. Cooke, of Salem. Bond for $2,000 was required.

COMING WEDDING

Miss Emma M. Clare And William P. Ormes to Wed on July 16.

Cards are out announcing the wedding of Mr. William P. Ormes and Miss Ella M. Clare, both of whom reside in this city.

The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Blanche Amareaux, No. 3 Fourth street, Rankin, Pa., on the evening of July 16, and a large number of East Liverpool people will be present. The young couple will make their home in this city.

Released From Quarantine.

Mrs. William Fadely, who has been confined to her home in New Cumberland with smallpox for several weeks, was released from quarantine yesterday. She made a trip up town at once, but most of her friends seemed disposed to give her the whole side walk, notwithstanding the fact that the quarantine has been raised.

Capt. Roe carried the little fellow through the cabin and showed him to them.

As the vessel lay at the wharf, Chief Clerk George Hunter, of the steamer, discovered two trunks in the wharf-boat as the steamer was about to back out. They were marked Richard Lisk, New Matamoras. Mr. Hunter did not know the Lisks, but was sure that the trunks belonged to passengers on the boat. He held the steamer until he ascertained about them. Sure enough they did belong to passengers on board and when the baby was born, it was discovered that the little tot's outfit was in the trunks.

There happened to be a physician on board and every care was given to the mother and the child. When New Matamoras was reached Mrs. Lisk and her baby were safely put on shore. The father was so well pleased with the treatment received by the captain and his wife that he at once decided to name the child after the packet.

MEN ENCOURAGED

Good News for Them Is Promised. Discharged Men to Be Reinstated.

An open meeting of the local union of the Amalgamated Association was held yesterday afternoon in Potters' hall at Wellsville. There were seven new names enrolled. George Evans, Charles James and T. M. McGovern, of the carpenters' union, addressed the men.

It was learned last night that word had been indirectly received by all the men who have been discharged that they could go back to work when they were ready. This is in accordance with the word sent out yesterday by President Shaffer that they would not meet the trust representatives until the discharged men are taken back. The following telegram was received from Pittsburgh by Organizer George I. Evans yesterday:

"Cannot leave here by early train tomorrow. Will be with you later in the day with good news. Shaffer sends congratulations. CHAPPELL."

This means that Vice President Chappell wants to be on the scene himself. The fight in the Wellsville mill is the most important of all just now, and if it should be lost the men think the chances for the union elsewhere will be very poor. Chappell also sent the following message to Mr. Evans:

"Shaffer and myself join in congratulations to yourself and brethren of Wellsville for splendid work for A. A. Will not meet trust representatives until men are reinstated."

Another meeting was held today.

WASN'T SMALLPOX

Sanitary Officer Burgess Investigated an Alleged Case of the Dread Disease.

Sanitary Officer Burgess investigated an alleged case of smallpox in the West End yesterday afternoon. The patient, who is a potter, has been ill for several weeks and a few days ago a rash appeared on his face. Mr. Burgess was not aware that a physician had been attending the man, but learned that he was afflicted with a mild case of chickenpox.

The report that he had smallpox is thought to have been started by a woman who happened to go into the house and noticed the eruptions on sick man's face.

STRUCK INSENSIBLE

Charles McKenzie, Aged 10, Hit By a Ball And Badly Hurt.

In the third inning of the ball game at Rock Springs yesterday Charles McKenna, aged 10, was hit by a passed ball and it was thought he had been seriously hurt.

Score 17 to 3.

The Hill Tops and Rovers played a game of base ball at West End park yesterday afternoon, resulting in a score of 17 to 3 in favor of the former.

Robert Whan, Aged 70, Hanged Himself In His Sleeping Room.

DAUGHTER FOUND HIM DEAD

A NOOSE OF HANDKERCHIEFS

Which He Fastened to His Neck And the Bed Post the Means Used to Strangle Himself—Survived by Four Daughters.

Columbiana, July 9. — (Special.)—Rather than be a burden to his daughters, Robert Whan, aged 70, hanged himself here last night. His daughter Dolly, with whom he made his home, found him dead in his bedroom about 7 o'clock this morning.

He had taken handkerchiefs, tied them together and made a noose, which he fastened to his neck, attaching the other to the bed post. Then, leaning forward and bearing his weight upon the noose, he had remained there until he strangled.

Mr. Whan had been in the infirmary for some time. He has four daughters and they decided to support him. He imagined he was a burden to his children and that they desired to get rid of him.

One of his daughters is married and lives in Michigan; another is Mrs. Kreidler, of New Castle, Pa.; another Miss Sue, matron at Marshalsea, the Pittsburg city farm, and the fourth Dolly, who kept house for him.

SETTLED FOR $600

RAILROAD COMPANY PAYS WIDOW THIS SUM.

Man Killed at Salem Crossing—Petition to Reduce a Mother's Allowance.

Lisbon, July 9. — (Special.)—Judge Boone yesterday authorized Adella Ryser, administrator of the estate of John A. Ryser, late of Salem, to settle with the Pennsylvania company for $600 for the death of her husband. On January 6, 1900, Ryser was struck by a Ft. Wayne train at a Salem crossing and instantly killed. The railroad company denied liability for the accident, but agreed to pay the sum named rather than stand suit.

Mrs. William Stokesberry, of Elk Run township, some time ago petitioned probate court to reduce the year's allowance of her mother, Sarah Cope, from $1,000 to $250. Israel Cope, of Middleton township, died in 1899 and the appraisers of the estate set aside $1,000 for the widow's support during the following years. Mrs. Cope has a life estate in the 86-acre farm and Mrs. Stokesberry says that $250 in addition to the proceeds of the farm are more than sufficient for a year. Judge Boone reserved his decision.

Kate S. Cooke was appointed administrator of the estate of Osbourne R. Cooke, of Salem. Bond for $2,000 was required.

COMING WEDDING

The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Blanche Amareaux, No. 3 Fourth street, Rankin, Pa., on the evening of July 16, and a large number of East Liverpool people will be present. The young couple will make their home in this city.

Released From Quarantine.

Mrs. William Fadely, who has been confined to her home in New Cumberland with smallpox for several weeks, was released from quarantine yesterday. She made a trip up town at once, but most of her friends seemed disposed to give her the whole side-walk, notwithstanding the fact that the quarantine has been raised.

Given to Vocal Exertions Which Sleepy Residents Don't Appreciate.

Contractor McLaughlin still continues to do a large part of the hauling for the paving on Pennsylvania avenue at night. His teams now begin work at midnight and continue 10 hours.

No trouble is experienced with the horses since this rule has been adopted. A number of residents of the avenue along which the teams pass, however, are greatly annoyed by the unnecessary noise made by some of the teamsters. They seem to become lonesome during the wee small hours and in order to keep up their spirits indulge in vocal exercises that makes sleep impossible for the weary laborer who toils in the heat of the day.

Several of the residents state that they will request Mr. McLaughlin to have his men refrain from singing their favorite songs at this unsuitable hour, and in case it then continues they will appeal to the authorities.

The East End Is Orderly.

Since the beginning of the Fourth vacation affairs in the East End have been unusually quiet. But one arrest was made during the vacation and the victim was the only disorderly individual on the streets in that time. An old resident states that he cannot recall a Fourth of July in many years that has passed off without excitement or disorder of any kind as this one did.

East Enders Victorious.

The East End Grays and a picked nine from Klondike played a game on the East End grounds yesterday. The Grays won by a score of 8 to 4. The latter team is playing this afternoon with a team backed by Henry Neiminger.

Given a Serenade.

William Chambers and wife returned last evening from their honeymoon trip. The usual crowd of serenaders gathered at the groom's house and made the night hideous for a short time. The groom treated liberally, after which the serenaders departed.

Arranging a Match.

The East End tennis club is arranging for a contest with the Oak Grove players, which will probably be held about August 1. A number of players from this city will visit at the East End courts Thursday evening.

Condition Still Serious.

The condition of Mrs. Hugh Clark still remains unchanged. So far it has been impossible for the physicians to counteract the effect of the electrical shock. Her condition is critical.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

W. A. Orin is confined to his home on First avenue by illness.

Charles Demmerling, of Helena, has returned after a week's visit to friends in Pittsburgh.

John Forbes has commenced the erection of a new six-room house on Virginia avenue.

Raymond, the 10-year-old son of George Clendenning, of Pennsylvania avenue, is very ill threatened with typhoid fever.

Mrs. J. W. Kennedy, who has been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. J. Day, left today for Sistersville, W. Va., where she will visit her brother, Bruce Wilcox. She was accompanied by her son, Frank. They will again visit at the East End before returning to their home at Coryden, Pa.

Salem Parties Secure Lease on Land for Picnic Grounds Near Alliance.

Alliance and Sebring are to have a summer resort and amusement park which will be owned and backed by Salem capitalists.

It is said to be the intention of Mr. Kennerdell and the other interested parties to erect a large hotel on the banks of the Mahoning, also a large dancing pavilion, roller coaster, bowling alleys and have many other forms of amusement. Yesterday Mr. Kennerdell obtained a 30-day option on 150 acres of land adjoining the site already purchased. The land is admirably fitted for park purposes, a large portion being covered with woods. If the plans do not fall through the resort will be ready to be opened within six months.

Lewis says the fish looked like a small-sized boat when it was being drawn out of the water. Dr. Fraser has only been able to catch a twelve pounder so far.

Before the Pennsylvania Railroad used Walker's Soap, newly varnished cars were found to be shabby and need re-varnishing. A standard of soap purity was then set up, and now the cars are washed with

INDIANS WERE EASY

The Klondikers Suffered Defeat at the Hands of the West End Rovers.

The Klondike Indians went down to an ignominious defeat before the superior tactics of the West End Rovers at the West End park yesterday afternoon. Although the Indians had disregarded their agreement and run in a number of "ringers" from the East End Grays, they were no match for their sturdy opponents, upon whom their strongest efforts were wasted without avail.

The Indians never stood a ghost of a show, and although they made an heroic attempt to unbalance the equilibrium of the Rovers, the latter team kept their nerve admirably, putting up an almost errorless game that resulted in a score of 11 to 2 in their favor.

BIG IMPROVEMENT

Made By Chief Thompson in And About the City Jail.

Chief Thompson busied himself yesterday afternoon making some needed repairs in and about the city jail. One noticeable improvement is the linoleum which covers the floor of the hallway leading from the mayor's office into the jail and also in the small room adjoining the women's department.

The chief refused to listen to suggestions from either Mayor Davidson or Clerk Hanley, but went ahead and did the work according to the dictations of his own master mind. So well was it done that not only has he been praised from almost every source, but the improvement is so great that Sanitary Officer Burgess has offered to plead guilty to a charge of "consult and botany" in order to be locked up.

Chester Lewis returned yesterday from a trip to Les Cheneaux, Mich. He tells of all kinds of big fish and big times. He says James Baum and Dr. Fraser are having a pleasant race to catch the biggest fish. Baum is ahead by 1 1/4 pounds. He caught one fish weighing 13 1/4 pounds. Lewis says the fish looked like a small-sized boat when it was being drawn out of the water. Dr. Fraser has only been able to catch a twelve pounder so far.

uses Walker's Soap because it is free from alkali and saves the company thousands of dollars in a year in preserving paint, varnish, and fabrics washed with it. Before the Pennsylvania Railroad used Walker's Soap, newly varnished cars were found to be shabby and need re-varnishing. The cause was a mystery till the company's chemist investigated and found it was the alkali in common soaps that was destroying property. A standard of soap purity was then set up, and now the cars are washed with

The Klondikers Suffered Defeat at the Hands of the West End Rovers.

The Klondike Indians went down to an ignominious defeat before the superior tactics of the West End Rovers at the West End park yesterday afternoon. Although the Indians had disregarded their agreement and run in a number of "rings" from the East End Grays, they were no match for their sturdy opponents, upon whom their strongest efforts were wasted without avail.

The Indians never stood a ghost of a show, and although they made an heroic attempt to unbalance the equilibrium of the Rovers, the latter team kept their nerve admirably, putting up an almost errorless game that resulted in a score of 11 to 2 in their favor.

BIG IMPROVEMENT

Made By Chief Thompson in And About the City Jail.

Chief Thompson busied himself yesterday afternoon making some needed repairs in and about the city jail. One noticeable improvement is the linoleum which covers the floor of the hallway leading from the mayor's office into the jail and also in the small room adjoining the women's department.

The chief refused to listen to suggestions from either Mayor Davidson or Clerk Hanley, but went ahead and did the work according to the dictations of his own master mind. So well was it done that not only has he been praised from almost every source, but the improvement is so great that Sanitary Officer Burgess has offered to plead guilty to a charge of "consult and botany" in order to be locked up.

STRIKE CONFERENCE

May Reach a Settlement of the Trouble at Pittsburgh Tomorrow.

OFFICER OF TRUST SO SAID.

Statement to That Effect Issued From the Office of J. Pierpont Morgan, in New York, After He Had Left the Place.

New York, July 9.—After J. Pierpont Morgan's first business day in Wall street since his return it was officially stated that the strike of steel workers had not been settled, but that it was hoped an amicable arrangement would be reached on Wednesday.

Mr. Morgan conducted negotiations with the Amalgamated association through a representative in Pittsburgh. Several long telegrams passed between them. One of the officers of the steel trust who kept in touch with Mr. Morgan throughout the day said late yesterday afternoon:

"In view of the many conflicting statements made during the day it might be well to state that the differences between certain of the constituent companies of the United States Steel corporation and the Amalgamated association have not yet been settled. There is reason to believe, however, that a settlement will be reached by Wednesday."

TEN SUNDAY LAW SUITS.

Accused Were Let Off on Payment of Costs and Fines Being Remitted.

Pittsburgh, July 9.—Ten alleged violators of the blue laws were given hearings before Alderman S. J. Toole yesterday afternoon. The cases were all for violation of Sunday, June 30, and the accused were obliged to pay the costs of prosecution, the fines of $25 being remitted in each case.

Four informations for violation of the Sunday laws were made yesterday before Alderman W. A. Means by Police Inspector Henry Whitehouse.

DECIDED TO SELL.

Cambria's Plant Will Go to the New Conemaugh Company.

Philadelphia, July 9.—The stockholders of the Cambria Steel company decided by a unanimous vote to sell their property and assets to the recently formed Conemaugh Steel company. There were 233,394 shares voted, and Vice President J. Lowber Welsh said after the meeting that it was unusual in a deal of such magnitude that the vote should be unanimous.

He further stated that the result of the meeting assured the success of the merger of Pennsylvania steel companies outside the United States Steel corporation, although there will be another meeting on Aug. 15 to ratify the action of the meeting.

STOWE RESIGNS;

SALARY INSUFFICIENT.

Washington, July 9.—Consul General James G. Stowe, stationed at Cape Town, has resigned. Colonel Stowe set forth his reasons for quitting in a long letter to Third Assistant Secretary of State Cridler. Colonel Stowe finds that $3,000 a year, with war prices on everything in South Africa, is not enough to support himself and his family, which, on account of the high prices of living, he has left in Kansas City. The consul general says that prices at Cape Town, even in normal times, are much higher than in the United States. Since the beginning of the war they have gone so high that it is longer impossible for him to remain at his post.

CONSTITUTION BEAT

THE OTHER YACHTS.

Newport, R. I., July 9.—If the victory of the Constitution over the Columbia and the Independence in the first of the three-cornered races on Saturday was significant and definite, her winning Monday may well be characterized as overwhelming and the defeat of the Independence as positive and almost hopeless. The new Herreshoff boat beat the Columbia by nearly half an hour over the 30-mile course, while the record against the Independence was over an hour. She came near traveling around the triangle while the Crowninshield creation was covering two legs of it.

The McKinleys Rested.

Canton, O., July 9.—President and Mrs. McKinley closely observed their "resting program" Monday. The weather was cool, but there was too much humidity for Mrs. McKinley to venture out on a morning drive, although she continues to gradually regain strength. President McKinley and Secretary Cortelyou devoted some time to official work during the morning, clearing up business they brought from Washington and disposing of matters forwarded by mail.

Interment of Hohenlohe Thursday.

Berlin, July 9.—The interment of the late Prince von Hohenlohe will take place next Thursday at Schillingsturm, Bavaria. Emperor William will be represented at the interment by the Crown Prince Frederick William. The emperor in his telegram of condolence to Prince Philip von Hohenlohe said: "History will accord him an honorable place and I will always keep him in remembrance."

National Educational Association.

Detroit, July 9.—The fortieth annual convention of the National Educational association opened here.

FAMOUS DISPATCH TO DEWEY.

Crowninshield Said He Wrote It. President and Griggs Changed it a Little—Long's Statement.

Washington, July 9.—Rear Admiral A. S. Crowninshield, chief of the bureau of navigation, issued a formal statement to the effect that he is the author of the famous dispatch to Admiral Dewey, ordering him to proceed from Hong Kong to Manila and there capture or destroy the Spanish fleet. Admiral Crowninshield states that he wrote the dispatch in the white house and submitted it to both Attorney General Griggs and the president, and that the only change made in the dispatch as he wrote it was the addition of either the word "capture" or the word "destroy."

The dispatch, according to Admiral Crowninshield, then was handed to Lieutenant Whittlesley, who took it to Secretary Long, and after the latter had signed it sent it to Admiral Dewey.

In conclusion Admiral Crowninshield says that whatever credit comes from having given the order belongs to the president and Secretary Long.

Secretary Long said upon this subject:

"My recollection is entirely distinct. Immediately upon declaration of war I had conferred with the president about an order to Dewey to attack the Spanish fleet at Manila."

"On Sunday morning, April 24, I went to the white house, sat with the president on a sofa in the corridor, and earnestly advised the sending of such an order. But for Admiral Crowninshield's statement, I should have said unhesitatingly that I had with me the dispatch which had been prepared in his bureau of navigation, and that, the president approving, I returned to the navy department and sent it in to the bureau of navigation to be put in cipher."

"I then went out to drive. As I drove out between 11 and 12 o'clock, I remember passing Admiral Crowninshield. As to what transpired later at the white house, at the meeting which he describes, I, of course, have no knowledge."

"It seems to me probable that the president, after his interview with me, sent for some of the cabinet and Admiral Crowninshield, and took up the dispatch which, according to my recollection, had already been prepared, and gave it final consideration. Probably also there had come in Dewey's dispatch of the day before, advising us that he had been ordered to get away from Hong Kong."

CROWDS OF SOONERS.

Some Determined to Locate on Indian Lands Despite President's Proclamation.

El Reno, O. T., July 9.—Judge Kirkpatrick, special allotting agent of the Kiowa-Comanche Indian reservation, said that Caddo county was full of "sooners," and that trouble is likely to occur, notwithstanding the county is to be opened by lottery and not by run. Two troops of cavalry, one each from Ft. Reno and Ft. Sill, have been ordered to these posts, and are expected to arrive Wednesday.

Low Hornbeck has a small following here who declare they intend to locate now, regardless of the president's proclamation, naming certain days upon which the land is to be allotted by drawing. Already some of Hornbeck's followers have entered the forbidden country.

THOMAS S. BARKER IN

NEW JERSEY STATE PRISON.

Jersey City, N. J., July 9.—Thomas S. Barker, who was convicted of assault with intent to kill the Rev. John Keller at Arlington, Feb. 3, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment, left the city for the state prison at Trenton, where he began to serve his term.

A Philippine Official Accused.

Manila, July 9.—The United States Philippine commission has ordered H. Phelps Whitmar, the governor of Benguet province, to come to Manila and submit to an investigation, owing to the allegation that he has been using his position to his personal advantage, in acquiring lands and mining rights from the natives. He is charged with indiscretion and violation of his instructions. Colonel Duval, of the Forty-eighth regiment, and Dr. Keifer, the regimental surgeon, complained of Governor Whitmar.

Argued For New Trial.

Pittsburgh, July 9.—The general argument list for June was taken up in criminal court yesterday by Judges Shafer and Rodgers. Attorney John D. Watson argued for five minutes in behalf of Edward Biddle for a new trial. District Attorney John C. Haymaker opposed it. It was announced that no new testimony will be taken in Walter Dorman's case. Attorney William A. Blakely will submit a brief, after which the court will render its decision.

House Work

Seems easy to a man, but there is a great deal of lifting and reaching to do; a great many trips up and down stairs to make in the course of day's house work. It's hard where a woman is well. For a woman suffering with some form of "female trouble" it is daily torment.

There are thousands of such women struggling along, day by day, in increasing misery. There are other thousands who have found a complete cure of their disease in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stops debilitating drains, cures irregularity, heals inflammation and ulceration, nourishes the nerves, and gives vitality and vigor. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. It contains no opium, cocaine nor other narcotic.

"For a number of months I suffered with female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McGowne, of 1212 Bank St., Washington, D. C. "I tried various remedies, but none seemed to do me any permanent good. The doctor said it was the worst case of internal trouble they ever had. I decided to write to you for help. I received a very encouraging reply, and commenced treatment at once. I had not used your 'Favorite Prescription' a week before I began to feel better, and as I continued, my health gradually improved. It is improving every day."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for a book in paper covers, or 31 stamps in cloth, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Canton, O., July 9.—President and Mrs. McKinley closely observed their "resting program" Monday. The weather was cool, but there was too much humidity for Mrs. McKinley to venture out on a morning drive, although she continues to gradually regain strength. President McKinley and Secretary Cortelyou devoted some time to official work during the morning, clearing up business they brought from Washington and disposing of matters forwarded by mail.

FAMOUS DISPATCH TO DEWEY.

Crowninshield Said He Wrote It.
President and Griggs Changed It
a Little—Long's Statement.

Washington, July 9.—Rear Admiral A. S. Crowninshield, chief of the bureau of navigation, issued a formal statement to the effect that he is the author of the famous dispatch to Admiral Dewey, ordering him to proceed from Hong Kong to Manila and there capture or destroy the Spanish fleet. Admiral Crowninshield states that he wrote the dispatch in the white house and submitted it to both Attorney General Griggs and the president, and that the only change made in the dispatch as he wrote it was the addition of either the word "capture" or the word "destroy."

The dispatch, according to Admiral Crowninshield, then was handed to Lieutenant Whittlesley, who took it to Secretary Long, and after the latter had signed it sent it to Admiral Dewey.

In conclusion Admiral Crowninshield says that whatever credit comes from having given the order belongs to the president and Secretary Long.

Secretary Long said upon this subject:

"My recollection is entirely distinct. Immediately upon declaration of war I had conferred with the president about an order to Dewey to attack the Spanish fleet at Manila. On Sunday morning, April 24, I went to the white house, sat with the president on a sofa in the corridor, and earnestly advised the sending of such an order. But for Admiral Crowninshield's statement, I should have said unhesitatingly that I had with me the dispatch which had been prepared in his bureau of navigation, and that, the president approving, I returned to the navy department and sent it in to the bureau of navigation to be put in cipher."

"I then went out to drive. As I drove out between 11 and 12 o'clock, I remember passing Admiral Crowninshield. As to what transpired later at the white house, at the meeting which he describes, I, of course, have no knowledge. It seems to me probable that the president, after his interview with me, sent for some of the cabinet and Admiral Crowninshield, and took up the dispatch which, according to my recollection, had already been prepared, and gave it final consideration. Probably also there had come in Dewey's dispatch of the day before, advising us that he had been ordered to get away from Hong Kong."

CROWDS OF SOONERS.

Some Determined to Locate on Indian
Lands Despite President's Proclamation.

El Reno, O. T., July 9.—Judge Kirkpatrick, special allotting agent of the Kiowa-Comanche Indian reservation, said that Caddo county was full of "sooners," and that trouble is likely to occur, notwithstanding the county is to be opened by lottery and not by run. Two troops of cavalry, one each from Ft. Reno and Ft. Sill, have been ordered to these posts, and are expected to arrive Wednesday.

Lew Hornbeck has a small following here who declare they intend to locate now, regardless of the president's proclamation, naming certain days upon which the land is to be allotted by drawing. Already some of Hornbeck's followers have entered the forbidden country.

A Philippine Official Accused.

Manila, July 9.—The United States Philippine commission has ordered H. Phelps Whitmar, the governor of Benguet province, to come to Manila and submit to an investigation, owing to the allegation that he has been using his position to his personal advantage, in acquiring lands and mining rights from the natives. He is charged with indiscretion and violation of his instructions. Colonel Duval of the Forty-eighth regiment, and Dr. Keifer, the regimental surgeon, complained of Governor Whitmar.

House Work

Seems easy to a man, but there is a great deal of lifting and reaching to do; a great many trips up and down stairs to make in the course of day's house work. It's hard where a woman is well. For a woman suffering with some form of "female trouble" it is daily torment. There are thousands of such women struggling along, day by day, in increasing misery. There are other thousands who have found a complete cure of their disease in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stops debilitating drains, cures irregularity, heals inflammation and ulceration, nourishes the nerves, and gives vitality and vigor. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. It contains no opium, cocaine nor other narcotic.

"For a number of months I suffered with female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McGowne, of 1212 Bank St., Washington, D. C. "I tried various remedies, but none seemed to do me any permanent good. The doctors said it was the worst case of internal trouble they ever had. I decided to write to you for help. I received a very encouraging reply, and commenced treatment at once. I had not used your 'Favorite Prescription' a week before I began to feel better, and as I continued, my health gradually improved. It is improving every day."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for a book in paper covers, or 31 stamps in cloth, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A MIGHTY INFLUENCE.

The annual convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor now being held in Cincinnati calls attention to the wonderful growth of this organization and its far-reaching influence. Ten years ago the Christian Endeavor Society, then comparatively new, had reached a membership of 1,000,000. Even that growth, springing from the example set by a pastor in the small city of Portland, Me., in interesting the young people of his congregation to take an active part in church work, was considered phenomenal. Now the 1,000,000 has increased to 4,000,000 and every land beneath the sun has societies or representatives of this great and vigilant body of Christian workers. Its influence is incalculable. Not denominational lines, but the spirit of unity and charity bind its members together. The world is full of work for such an organization, and we trust that its labors may be even more useful in the future than they have been in the past.

THE STATE OF OKLAHOMA.

Oklahoma is already clamoring for admission into the sisterhood of states and will soon clamor more loudly. Arrangements are now completed for the opening of the great Indian reservations in Oklahoma and the Indian territory. The allotment of these lands will probably add 100,000 inhabitants to the population of the two territories. This will bring the population of the two territories above 1,000,000, and, if they are consolidated as is now proposed, will make a state of large and respectable proportions. No state ever entered the union with a population anything like it.

Oklahoma has some of the finest soil on the continent and its white inhabitants are far above the average pioneers in enterprise and intelligence. The Indian will fare better under the new arrangement than when he nominally held the land and swindlers and squaw men reaped the profits. The state of Oklahoma, the forty-sixth state of the union, will probably be established ere another year, and it will be a state, in climate, soil, resources and men, that its people and the people of the whole country are likely to have reason to be proud of.

A HOT WEATHER NEED.

Dog days are fast approaching, yet the dog law, which Mayor Davidson has long and strenuously advocated, has not been enacted by the city solons. It may seem a trivial matter to the average citizen, but if he should chance to collide with a collarless and ownerless dog afflicted with rabies he would change his mind very suddenly. Already, during the present summer, a number of dogs in the city have gone mad, or are supposed to have done so. Scarcely a week passes that some person is not bitten by some worthless cur that should never have been suffered to remain at large. Now being rent by dogs' teeth, whether the animal has hydrophobia or not, is a most unpleasant experience. It is all the more aggravating because it is entirely unnecessary. The danger in it is genuinely and alarmingly real, and is one to which neither children nor grown people should be subjected. What Mayor Davidson wants and what the city needs—judging from the number of dogs running at large—is an ordinance compelling the owners of canine pets to look after them, to muzzle them in hot weather, and to compel them to wear a collar bearing their owner's name, so that if the dog becomes a nuisance the responsibility may be fixed. Dogs whom nobody owns should be slaughtered on sight.

There is much legislation which engages the attention of the city council that is less important than the dog question. The city fathers can serve the public a good turn by taking the matter up. If they don't know what is needed, the mayor can tell them in short order.

A Columbus boy has successfully driven an automobile from Ohio's capital to Columbus. It is safe to say he did not pass over Columbiana county roads, or it would have been all up with his machine.

And now they tell us that the Ohio Democrats are going to omit free silver from their platform. There's no longer any votes in that issue.

The Iron City will soon have put iron bands around the heads of its base ball enthusiasts or there will be an alarming explosion.

Jom Johnson's fads are likely to suffer sad neglect at the hands of the Democratic convention. Likewise William J. Bryan's.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Elizabeth Early.
Salem, July 9.—Mrs. Elizabeth Early died yesterday of paralysis. She was seized with the disease while listening to the Memorial day address May 30. Mrs. Early was 45 years old, and a member of the W. R. C., which will have charge of the funeral.

CHURCH RE-ORGANIZED

East Liverpool Baptists Adopt a Constitution, Pay Debts And Elect Officers.

The Baptist church of this city was reorganized last Sunday evening. The reorganization included adopting articles of faith, a constitution and by-laws and the election of officers. The election resulted as follows: Deacons, D. Wells, T. C. Neal and M. C. Wright; clerk, Charles Brown; treasurer, J. A. Powell; trustees, A. Frazier, J. A. Powell and J. Williams; superintendent of Sunday School, W. H. Beynon. The church raised sufficient money to cancel all its debts.

There are great preparations going on for the entertainment of the visiting ministers and delegates for the recognition council which will convene at the U. P. church next Thursday. There will be two sessions, one at 3 and the other at 8 p. m.

The afternoon session will be a formal examination of the condition of the church and its articles of faith.

The evening session will be more of a public character and addresses will be made by visiting ministers and local pastors. A special feature will be the music. The well known chorists, Miss McLane, Profs. Laughlin and Phillis, will unite their respective choirs into a grand chorus, which will render appropriate music. In addition there will be selections by a male choir directed by Prof. Phillis and also selection by well known soloists.

The courtesy of the U. P. church and its pastor, Dr. Taggart, who have generously given the use of their church to the Baptists, is highly appreciated by the latter.

LAND OPTIONED

Large Tracts Between Island Creek And Yellow Creek Taken Up for the Wabash.

Steubenville, July 9.—Russell Jeffrey, of Woodrow, Pa., who for several days has been taking options on coal in the vicinity of Island Creek, has returned home. Mr. Jeffrey has secured options on over 4,000 acres in the tract of country situated between Island Creek and Yellow Creek and expects to return at an early date to secure several thousand more. These are taken, supposedly, in the interest of the Wabash railroad, and a decided move toward developing and bringing into publicity the many natural advantages of this rich and beautiful farming country.

Increased values of land and many other advantages hitherto undreamed of, are predicted for the residents of this vicinity.

WORKING TOGETHER

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company Reported Backing Projected Trolley Lines.

Wheeling, July 9.—It has developed that the Pennsylvania Railroad company is backing trolley lines about this city. Martin's Ferry council refused to give the new Ohio Rapid Transit company a franchise unless lines were built to Wheeling, and the company produced a contract with the Wheeling Terminal Railroad company, owned by the Pennsylvania company, giving the exclusive use of the bridge between this city and Martin's Ferry, and also a contract between the transit company and the bankers acting in the name of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, agreeing to build the line within 10 months of securing certain franchises.

MILES OF DEAD REPTILES

Willoughby, O., July 9.—The lake beach in this vicinity has been literally covered for several miles with the dead bodies of lake lizards. Some epidemic disease seems to have killed them by the thousands.

Though known to exist in great numbers in the lake, they are rarely seen, except when taken on night lines, from which they sometimes strip the bait.

They are repulsive looking creatures, with slimy, scaleless bodies, hideous looking heads and four legs. They are sluggish and perfectly harmless. Some of the farmers near the beach have gathered them up for fertilizer.

SHOT AND KILLED

Young Man at Barberton Killed While Trying to Enter Another's Home.

Akron, O., July 9.—Charles Waltz, aged 22, was shot and killed by Photographer John W. Edwards, at Barberton, late at night as he was attempting to enter the house. Waltz and two companions had trouble with some one at the White Onion, a resort west of the city. They supposed Edwards was this man and attempted to enter his home, declaring they would "fix" him. Edwards fired just as the window was smashed in and the bullet lodged in Waltz's heart.

Waltz was a quiet, orderly fellow, a clerk for the Stirling Boiler company. He was not the aggressor in the trouble. Edwards, not knowing his shot had taken effect, went to bed. A policeman found Waltz's body on his porch. No arrests have been made.

A MIGHTY INFLUENCE.

The annual convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor now being held in Cincinnati calls attention to the wonderful growth of this organization and its far-reaching influence. Ten years ago the Christian Endeavor Society, then comparatively new, had reached a membership of 1,000,000. Even that growth, springing from the example set by a pastor in the small city of Portland, Me., in interesting the young people of his congregation to take an active part in church work, was considered phenomenal. Now the 1,000,000 has increased to 4,000,000 and every land beneath the sun has societies or representatives of this great and vigilant body of Christian workers. Its influence is incalculable. Not denominational lines, but the spirit of unity and charity bind its members together. The world is full of work for such an organization, and we trust that its labors may be even more useful in the future than they have been in the past.

THE STATE OF OKLAHOMA.

Oklahoma is already clamoring for admission into the sisterhood of states and will soon clamor more loudly. Arrangements are now completed for the opening of the great Indian reservations in Oklahoma and the Indian territory. The allotment of these lands will probably add 100,000 inhabitants to the population of the two territories. This will bring the population of the two territories above 1,000,000, and, if they are consolidated as is now proposed, will make a state of large and respectable proportions. No state ever entered the union with a population anything like it.

Oklahoma has some of the finest soil on the continent and its white inhabitants are far above the average pioneers in enterprise and intelligence. The Indian will fare better under the new arrangement than when he nominally held the land and swindlers and squaw men reaped the profits. The state of Oklahoma, the forty-sixth state of the union, will probably be established ere another year, and it will be a state, in climate, soil, resources and men, that its people and the people of the whole country are likely to have reason to be proud of.

A HOT WEATHER NEED.

Dog days are fast approaching, yet the dog law, which Mayor Davidson has long and strenuously advocated, has not been enacted by the city solons. It may seem a trivial matter to the average citizen, but if he should chance to collide with a collarless and ownerless dog afflicted with rabies he would change his mind very suddenly. Already, during the present summer, a number of dogs in the city have gone mad, or are supposed to have done so. Scarcely a week passes that some person is not bitten by some worthless cur that should never have been suffered to remain at large. Now being rent by dogs' teeth, whether the animal has hydrophobia or not, is a most unpleasant experience. It is all the more aggravating because it is entirely unnecessary. The danger in it is genuinely and alarmingly real, and is one to which neither children nor grown people should be subjected. What Mayor Davidson wants and what the city needs—judging from the number of dogs running at large—is an ordinance compelling the owners of canine pets to look after them, to muzzle them in hot weather, and to compel them to wear a collar bearing their owner's name, so that if the dog becomes a nuisance the responsibility may be fixed. Dogs whom nobody owns should be slaughtered on sight.

There is much legislation which engages the attention of the city council that is less important than the dog question. The city fathers can serve the public a good turn by taking the matter up. If they don't know what is needed, the mayor can tell them in short order.

A Columbus boy has successfully driven an automobile from Ohio's capital to Columbus. It is safe to say he did not pass over Columbiana county roads, or it would have been all up with his machine.

And now they tell us that the Ohio Democrats are going to omit free silver from their platform. There's no longer any votes in that issue.

The Iron City will soon have put iron bands around the heads of its base ball enthusiasts or there will be an alarming explosion.

Jom Johnson's fads are likely to suffer sad neglect at the hands of the Democratic convention. Likewise William J. Bryan's.

East Liverpool Baptists Adopt a Constitution, Pay Debts And Elect Officers.

The Baptist church of this city was reorganized last Sunday evening. The reorganization included adopting articles of faith, a constitution and by-laws and the election of officers. The election resulted as follows: Deacons, D. Wells, T. C. Neal and M. C. Wright; clerk, Charles Brown; treasurer, J. A. Powell; trustees, A. Frazer, J. A. Powell and J. Williams; superintendent of Sunday School, W. H. Beynon. The church raised sufficient money to cancel all its debts.

There are great preparations going on for the entertainment of the visiting ministers and delegates for the recognition council which will convene at the U. P. church next Thursday. There will be two sessions, one at 3 and the other at 8 p. m.

The afternoon session will be a formal examination of the condition of the church and its articles of faith.

The evening session will be more of a public character and addresses will be made by visiting ministers and local pastors. A special feature will be the music. The well known chorists, Miss McLane, Profs. Laughlin and Phillips, will unite their respective choirs into a grand chorus, which will render appropriate music. In addition there will be selections by a male choir directed by Prof. Phillips and also selection by well known soloists.

The courtesy of the U. P. church and its pastor, Dr. Taggart, who have generously given the use of their church to the Baptists, is highly appreciated by the latter.

ENJOYING THEMSELVES

East Liverpool Boys Making It Lively for Staid Old Coshocton.

Coshocton, July 9.—The East Liverpool boys are enjoying their stay down the Muskingum and are making many friends in the city. They will play ball against Greater Coshocton today, and last night paraded the principal streets of the city to properly advertise the event. All the farm houses in the vicinity of their camp were drawn upon for costumes. Tonight they will give a dance in Forbes hall, Shepler's orchestra having been secured for the occasion.

They are keeping open house in camp, and entertain a large number of visitors every evening.

THE MILITANT C. E.'S

Put in Time Holding Meetings at the Cincinnati Convention.

ONE HOUR SERVICES HELD.

Among Other Features Were Evangelistic Services Held Throughout Tenement and Manufacturing Sections—Rev. G. C. Morgan Talked.

Cincinnati, July 9.—Another beautiful day greeted the thousands of Christian Endeavorers who are assembled here in their twentieth annual convention. The sudden change
in the weather Sunday brought several thousand more visitors to the city, and the clerks were kept busy until late last night registering the
new arrivals.

After the business sessions of Saturday and the evangelist and other services of Sunday, the regular programs of the twentieth international convention of the Christian Endeavor were begun Monday. Several of the largest churches in the central part of the city were used, in addition to the Odeon hall and the three large auditoriums heretofore used. Two quiet hour meetings were held from 8 to 9 a. m., conducted by Floyd W.
Tompkins, of Philadelphia, and Cornelius Woolfkin, of Brooklyn.

G. Campbell Morgan, of Baltimore,
conducted a meeting on Bible teaching, and J. E. Carson, of Brooklyn,
one on "The Holy Spirit." Miss Margaret Koch, of Waterville, Me., conducted a conference on "Bodily and Moral Development."

President Clark and Others Spoke.
At Auditorium Endeavor, President
Clark, presiding, and H. C. Lincoln,
of Philadelphia, as director of music,
"The Twentieth Century Home" was
the topic, with addresses by Clarence
J. Harris, Atlanta; Edwin Forrest
Hallenbeck, Albany; Ira Landrith,
Nashville; J. E. Pounds, Cleveland;
W. G. Marsh, Adelaide, Australia; and
Robert Johnson, London, Ont.

At the First English Lutheran church, Secretary Willis Baer presiding, and Percy S. Foster as musical director, there were many addresses on the school of methods for the Junior
Christian Endeavor by Mrs. Frances
M. Clark, Boston; Miss Frances Le Shaw, Chicago; A. J. Turkin, Allegheny, Pa.; Miss Clara L. Boyer, Dayton, O.; Miss Kate H. Haus, of St.
Louis; Mrs. M. L. Hagaman, Muncie,
Ind.; Field Secretary C. E. Eberman,
Boston; Miss Elizabeth M. Olney,
Providence; Jenks E. Robinson, Philadelphia; Treasurer William Shaw, Boston; George W. Pollock, Buchanan, W. Va.; and George B. Graft, Boston.

At Odeon hall, the new field secretary, Clarence E. Eberman, presided, and addresses were made by local,
district and state union officials.

The noonday evangelistic services
were conducted by Dr. S. L. Work.
At the Central Christian church
Rev. G. Campbell Morgan delivered
during the morning an extemporaneous address on prayer and its foundation, from a technical standpoint,
in the Scriptures. A large crowd heard the address.

At noon evangelistic services were held through the tenement and manufacturing districts of the city. The work was conducted by volunteers.

At Auditorium Endeavor, during
the morning, Rev. Tunis Hamlin, of Washington, D. C., presided. He had been asked to assume the chair by President Clark. A large audience was present. Rev. Ira Landrith, of Nashville, spoke on the home, while
Rev. J. E. Pounds, of Cleveland, spoke of the best books and how to read them properly.

Junior Endeavorers met at the First
English Lutheran church to hear
Treasurer William Shaw, of Boston.

The big meeting of the afternoon
was held in Auditorium Endeavor, where George B. Graft, of Boston, presided, with Percy S. Foster, of Washington, D. C., as musical director. Devotional exercises were led by Rev.
John Offer Gustaf, of Barclay, Md.
Rev. C. Lee Gaul, of Philadelphia,
spoke on "A Century More of Christian Endeavor Pledges," and George
B. Graft, of Aberdeen, Wash., told
of affairs that kept thousands moving.

New Ideas For Next Century.

Henry H. Marcuse, of Chicago, the great speaker, evolved some "New Committee Ideas for the Next Century," in an open parliamentary session, in which many suggestions were received from those in the audience.
J. M. Warren, of Santa Barbara, Cal., presented his topic of "What Are the Elements of a Strong Society?" into
a similar open discussion. Rev. W. L.
Tearby, of Kirksville, Mo., in his lecture on "Utilizing the Honorary Membership," recommended that young members be elected to fill offices and that the old ones be relegated to a rear but yet active seat. Dr. Ernest
Brown, of Cleveland, presented a paper on "Lookout Committees that Lookout." On them, he said, the life of the organization depends. William H. Moody, of Northfield, Mass., son of the evangelist Dwight W. Moody, spoke on "Your Testimony in the Meeting."
Miss S. Shaw, of Wapkeon, N. D., made a humorous address about "The Worshipers that Lead."

The fair sex predominated in Auditorium Williston at the afternoon meeting. Prof. James Lewis Howe, of Harrisonburg, Va., having in charge, R. H. Jacobs, of Brooklyn, led the chorus and music. The meeting was called "The Twentieth Century Christian Endeavor Society," and was largely devoted to an opening parliamentary session. President Francis Clark, of Boston, gave some of his ideas on "Advanced Steps for the
New Year." "The Training of Our Successors" was treated by Miss Margaret Cook, of Water Hill, Me. W.
H. Ball, of Philadelphia, conducted the open parliament, and E. G. Rout-mann, of Dayton, O., told "What Can

be Done With Good Literature." Alexander E. Matheson, of Janesville, Wis., explained "Social Committee
What Are Social," and "The Money Side
of It" was discussed by John Henry Stauff, of Pittsburgh. Rev. J. Edward Kirby, of Charleston, S. C., followed.
"The Way to Make Christian Endeav-
ers" was discussed by Rev. R. V.
Hunter, of Indianapolis, in a paper on
"How We May Manufacture Christian Endeavor Citizens." Rev. William Fenhelegon, of Decatur, Ill., spoke on "Graduating Into the Twentieth Century Church," and the meeting was closed with a "Forward Look Into Christian Endeavor," by Richard
W. Lewis, of Denver.

The local district and state union
officers met during the day and discussed business, as also did the ministers, who held an executive session
in Auditorium Endeavor late in the day.

The prison workers conferred at the Central Presbyterian church, and between 5 and 5:30 p. m. President Clark received all Endeavorers who have been members for 10 years and longer. The reception took place in the Odeon, adjoining the Music hall
auditoriums, and hundreds took the

COUNT BONI'S BROTHER MARRIED DAUGHTER OF CUBAN.

Paris, July 9.—Stanislaus de Castellane, a brother of Count Boni, was married to the daughter of Senor

Terry, the Cuban millionaire, at the Church of Saint Honore, in the presence of members of Parisian society and the American colony.

Clerk Accidentally Killed Customer.
Cumberland, Md., July 9.—As John Deemer, a clerk in a drug store here, was removing a revolver from a shelf in the store the weapon was discharged and the bullet struck and killed Clinton Billmyer, a customer.

TRAIN SIDE SWIPED.

A Number of Persons Received Injuries at Columbus.

Columbus, O., July 9.—Panhandle
passenger train No. 19, known as the New York express, was "side wiped"
by a switch engine just outside the Union station here Monday afternoon.
Twenty-five people were injured,
seven of them being so badly hurt
that they were unable to proceed on their way west with the train.

The following were the most seriously injured:
J. W. Chapin, Indianapolis, side
crushed.

Allen Chavoue, Marion, O., badly
bruised about head.

Cora Jennings, Orrville, O., right
arm sprained.

Mrs. Flynn, Ellwood, Ind., probably fatally injured.

Leon Coad, Ellwood, Ind., head
badly bruised and bad scalp wound.

Samuel Fulzan, badly bruised and
cut by broken glass.

The passenger train was approaching the station at a rapid speed, when
the switch engine with a cut of cars dashed out from a siding, striking the third coach of the passenger. The car and the one immediately following were demolished. Both trains were stopped at once and aid was summoned. The injured were removed to the Union station, where they were made as comfortable as possible.

Soon as the wreckage could be dumped from the track new cars were substituted and the train proceeded
on its way west.

TRIAL OF ELLIS GLEN.

Woman, Who Masqueraded as Man, Accused of Forgeries.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 9.—The trial of Ellis Glenn, the woman who is charged with committing forgery
while in the guise of a man, was commenced yesterday afternoon. Little trouble was experienced in securing
a jury and the opening statements
were made by the opposition counsel.
This morning the taking of evidence
was to begin. Miss Glenn appeared in court heavily veiled until she was requested to remove the veil.

The opening statements of counsel
for the defense promised to prove that E. B. Glenn, who is accused of forgery, was a man, while Ellis Glenn,
who is on trial, is a woman. The state promises to prove the two identical. Much evidence of a sensational character is promised. Glenn is charged with raising a deed of trust
for $400 to $1,400 and exchanging it for a $1,200 piece of land and $200
cash.

THE BLEEDING CURE.

OF A CENTURY AGO.

The Barbarous Practice of "Cup-
ping" Suffering Humanity Still Has
Its Adherents—The Operation a
Somewhat Delicate One.

One hundred years ago the sovereign
balm for every ill, from fainting to fever, was bleeding. The wonder is that
folly of the practice. It was the correct method of the day, recommended
and employed by the best physicians of the time. The surgeon who attended
George Washington in his last illness
first set about bleeding his august patient. The story is that he took several cups of blood from the vigorous arm of Washington and then diagnosed the case. Washington died. Some say that if he had not been bled he probably would have lived.

The cry comes. But that was a century ago! In sharp contrast stands the wonderful advances made by modern surgery. Thankfully it may be said that such is the truth. But sometimes customs die hard, and today the doctrine of "cupping" has devotees as faithful as those who gave up their life sustaining fluid in Washington's time. This is a startling statement.
The writer would have been skeptical
if he had not learned its truth himself.

In the seventeenth and eighteenth
centuries this gruesome form of treatment was the work of the barber. That guild has maintained its prerogative into the twentieth century. In a certain little side street in New York, crushed
between two towering brick buildings,
stands a timid story and a half frame
house. The suggestive striped pole
which emblazons the art of the dweller
within juts over the walk. In the window hangs a sign bearing the word
"Cupping." If today were set back to 1700, the pole alone would tell the story.
Times, they say, have changed,
and so the sign.

The barber is a German. He was much surprised at the question asked.
Everybody knew that cupping was a necessity, especially in the spring, he said. Sometimes, he added, he was so busy that little time remained for his
shaving and hair cutting of customers.

"Ach, yes," said the barber, "it keeps
me a busy man. How strange you say that you thought it no longer was practiced. People come here morning, noon and night every day, but mostly
do they come here in the spring and fall. It is then that the blood needs
drawing off. If you have a pain in your head, you come to me. I take my little cup, burn the air in it out, push down my little knives just behind your ear on the neck, and when the cup is full I take it away. If your headache is not better yet, I take another cup, so
be it that the bleeding stop not, upon
the other side. Maybe your back pains;
I cut you a little on the side. Your arm pains; I draw the blood from your wrist."

The barber bared his arm. The skin
was crossed with tiny, pale nicks, like those one sees on the wrist of a morphine victim.

"Twelve is the number of cups I draw at one sitting," the barber said.
"It is a bad pain that will not be gone
then. If you come again the next day
with the pain, I draw off more until the ache has disappeared completely."

The cups look like sherry glasses
with the stems removed. The knife,
or lancet, is arranged like a name
stamp. Pressure on a spring plunger drives the little blades, which are arranged in pairs or triplets, into the skin. It is here that the skill of the operator comes into play. When the incisions are made in the neck too violent, a tap on the plunger might mean
the severing or wounding of an artery.
Pressure too light would not let the blood flow fast enough. The barber
must have a trained touch.

Upon the condition of the cup much depends. The air is exhausted by means of a tiny alcohol flame. This makes a vacuum. The cup is pressed on lightly, but firmly. The blood rushes
under the skin beneath its rim; then,
like a flash, the little knives are pushed down, and the bleeding begins. The operator never takes more than 12 cups
at one sitting. That would mean perhaps a half pint of blood.

This system of bleeding for human ailments barks back to the earliest times. All through the middle ages it was the healing balm for the sufferings
of mankind. The ancients firmly believed that the loss of blood in this manner drew from their systems the
"noxious humors" which afflicted them.
The advent of the modern school of medicine and surgery did away with
the process as a universal therapeutic measure. It was not until the nineteenth century was nearly half completed, however, that physicians abandoned it as a practice.—New York Tribune.

Sweeping.

conically, "Anywhere."

ENGLISH SPARROWS.

Dates at Which These Birds Were Imported into This Country.

I have been asked several times lately at what date the common English sparrows were imported into the United States and by whom.

It seems that the first attempt was made in 1858 by a private citizen of Portland, Me. In the fall of that year
he liberated six sparrows, and they immediately made themselves at home in his garden and outbuildings. For a few years these birds and their descendants were seen in and about the town in small squads. These birds
multiplied until in the winter of 1871
a flock of them appeared in every nearby town, thus showing their tendency
to spread over adjoining territory.

About 1860 12 birds were imported
and liberated near Madison square,
New York city, and this was repeated
for several seasons.

In 1864 the commissioners of New York liberated 14 birds in Central park.
About this time numerous persons returning from abroad brought a few birds home and set them at liberty in
and about Jersey City.

The craze for importing these birds
spread, and in 1868 the city government of Boston imported a great number. But the birds had not been carefully handled, and they did not thrive,
and others were brought over. The birds which survived from these various importations were carefully fed
and looked after by the city govern-

In 1869 a thousand were imported
and liberated in the city of Philadelphia, and soon the birds spread over all adjacent territory.

About this time the Smithsonian institution became interested in bringing these birds to this country, so they imported 300, but most of them died. In 1871 the same institution brought over another lot, and they were successfully cared for.

From this it is seen that the birds
have started from a number of points
and were not one or two importations
to New York, as is usually supposed.—

STOVES.

Owing to the mildness of the climate
in Portugal heating stoves are rarely
used in that country.

Heating and cooking stoves are both
used by the upper classes in Greece,
but the lower classes still live without
using either.

Very few heating and cooking stoves
are used in Paraguay. All the houses have brick stoves built in them, so that iron stoves have little or no sale.

Stoves made of tiling are in general use in Austria. They are said to be superior to iron stoves on account of the great economy of fuel possible by their use.

There is in the Mediterranean countries a widespread prejudice against all artificial heat, and consequently not more than one house in six is ever heated during the winter time.

Iron cooking stoves are almost an unknown luxury among the people of South America and the West Indies.
They still cook in open fireplaces and
by other primitive methods.

The cooking stove, as it is known in the United States, does very little service in France. A few are in use in the country, but in most farmhouses the cooking is done in a large open fireplace. In the cities a furnace is built in the small kitchen.

Paying the Landlord.

The proprietor of one of the new apartment houses near Fifth avenue
has paid a rather heavy penalty for having a cartoonist as one of his tenants. The artist wanted some changes made in the decoration of his apartment, and the proprietor declined to make them. The proprietor's features
are pronounced, and he wears long,
flowing side whiskers. His face, distorted to suit the cartoonist's fancy,
has appeared nearly every week in one of the comic papers. Sometimes the proprietor figures as the villain and
again as the countryman who is bunked every week in the pages of this publication. The cartoonist lets the whiskers grow from week to week;
then, just as his victim imagines that they will grow so long that his friend
will not recognize him, the artist trims
the whiskers down again. The proprietor of the apartment house has concluded that the only way in which he can get even with the cartoonist is to put in a bill for services as model.—New York Sun.

Disheartening.

Even the clergyman, noble and inspiring as his vocation is, has now and then his bad moments.

"Oh, sir," said a poor woman to a Scottish minister, who was by no means a popular preacher, "well do I like the day when you give us the sermon."

"Indeed!" said the minister, flushing with pleasure. "I wish there were more like you, my good woman. It is seldom I hear such words from any one."

"Maybe their hearing's stronger than
mine, sir," said the woman promptly,
"but when you preach I can always get a good seat."—Youth's Companion.

A Clock Run by Balls.

A clock run in England is run by balls which fall into pockets on the right side of a wheel, which revolves
and operates the works. The balls drop into a drawer when the wheel revolves far enough. The clock is "wound up"
by placing the balls in a receptacle on top of the clock.—Jewelers' Circular-Weekly.

The first anthracite coal known to be such was discovered at Mauch Chunk,
Pa., in 1791. The Lehigh Coal Mining company began business in the same year, making a commodity of the recent discovery.

AN IDEAL FOOD.

Nutritious Value of Woadsu, Cultivated by Negroes in Africa.

In a communication to the state department at Washington Richard
Guenther, consul general at Frankfurt,
Germany, says:

"German papers speak of an annual plant growing in tropical Africa, belonging to the leguminous class, which
is largely cultivated by the negroes
as a food article. It has also been introduced to some extent in southern Asia and in Brazil. It is called woadsu by the African negroes. The botanical name is Glycine subterranea.

"The French expert chemist of all-
ments has recently analyzed the fruit of the woadsu with reference to its chemical composition and its value as food. The fruit, like the peanut, matures under ground. The eatable kernel has the shape of an egg and is dark and red, with black stripes and a white hilum, like most beans. It furnishes a very white flour, whose flavor
after cooking much resembles that of chestnuts. The chemical composition
is 58 per cent of starchy substance, 19
per cent nitrogenous, 10 per cent water, 6 per cent oil, 4 per cent cellulose
substance and 3 per cent ashes. It will be seen that two pounds of these beans would supply the daily requirements of the human system.

"M. Bolland, who has had wide experience in the chemistry of nutriments, calls this fruit the first one found by him in a natural state which shows all the chemical properties of a perfect nutriment."

QUARTER HOUR SERVICES HELD.

Among Other Features Were Evangelistic Services Held Through-
tions—Rev. G. C. Morgan Talked.

Cincinnati, July 9.—Another beautiful day greeted the thousands of Christian Endeavorers who are assembled here in their twentieth annual convention. The sudden change
in the weather Sunday brought several thousand more visitors to the city, and the clerks were kept busy
until late last night registering the
new arrivals.

After the business sessions of Saturday and the evangelist and other services of Sunday, the regular
programs of the twentieth international convention of the Christian Endeavor were begun Monday. Several
of the largest churches in the central
part of the city were used, in addition to Odeon hall and the three large auditoriums heretofore used. Two quarter hour meetings were held from 8 to 9 a. m., conducted by Floyd W.
Tompkins, of Philadelphia, and Cornelius Woolfkin, of Brooklyn.

G. Campbell Morgan, of Baltimore,
conducted a meeting on Bible teaching, and J. E. Carson, of Brooklyn,
one on "The Holy Spirit." Miss Margaret Koch, of Waterville, Me., conducted a conference on "Bodily and Moral Development."

President Clark and Others Spoke.
At Auditorium Endeavor, President
Clark, presiding, and H. C. Lincoln,
of Philadelphia, as director of music,
"The Twentieth Century Home" was
the topic, with addresses by Clarence
A. Harris, Atlanta; Edwin Forrest
Hallenbeck, Albany; Ira Landrith,
Nashville; J. E. Pounds, Cleveland;
W. G. Marsh, Adelaide, Australia, and
Robert Johnson, London, Ont.

church, Secretary Willis Baer presiding and Percy S. Foster as musical director, there were many addresses on
Christian Endeavor by Mrs. Frances
J. Clark, Boston; Miss Frances Le Shaw, Chicago; A. J. Turkle, Allegheny, Pa.; Miss Clara L. Boyer, Day-
ton, O.; Miss Kate H. Haus, of St.
Louis; Mrs. M. L. Hageman, Muncie,
Ind.; Field Secretary C. E. Eberman,
Boston; Miss Elizabeth M. Olney,
Providence; Jenks E. Robinson, Philadelphia; Treasurer William Shaw, Boston; George W. Pollock, Bache-man, W. Va., and George B. Graft, Boston.

At Odeon hall, the new field secretary, Clarence E. Eberman, presided,
and addresses were made by local,
district and state union officials.

The noonday evangelistic services
were conducted by Dr. S. L. Work.
At the Central Christian church,
Rev. G. Campbell Morgan delivered
during the morning an extemporane-
ous address on prayer and its foundation, from a technical standpoint,
on the Scriptures. A large crowd
heard the address.

At noon evangelistic services were
held through the tenement and manufacturing districts of the city. The work was conducted by volunteers.
At Auditorium Endeavor, during
the morning, Rev. Tunis Hamlin, of Washington, D. C., presided. He had been asked to assume the chair by President Clark. A large audience
was present. Rev. Ira Landrith, of Nashville, spoke on the home, while
J. E. Pounds, of Cleveland, spoke of the best books and how to read
them properly.

Junior Endeavorers met at the First
Treasurer William Shaw, of Boston.

The big meeting of the afternoon
was held in Auditorium Endeavor,
where George B. Graft, of Boston, presided, with Percy S. Foster, of Washington, D. C., as musical director. Devotional exercises were led by Rev.
John Offer Custis, of Barclay, Md.
Rev. C. Lee Gaul, of Philadelphia,
spoke on "A Century More of Christian Endeavor Pledges," and George
B. Graft, of Aberdeen, Wash., told
of affairs that kept thousands moving.

New Ideas For Next Century.

Henry H. Marcuse, of Chicago, the most speaker, evolved some "New Committee Ideas for the Next Century," in an open parliamentary session, in which many suggestions were
received from those in the audience.
J. M. Warren, of Santa Barbara, Cal., turned his topic of "What Are the Elements of a Strong Society?" into
a similar open discussion. Rev. W. L.
Tasby, of Kirksville, Mo., in his lecture on "Utilizing the Honorary Membership," recommended that young
members be elected to fill offices and
that the old ones be relegated to a rear but yet active seat. Dr. Ernest
Brown, of Cleveland, presented a paper on "Lookout Committees that Looked." On them, he said, the life of the organization depends. William
H. Moody, of Northfield, Mass., son of Evangelist Dwight W. Moody, spoke on "Your Testimony in the Meeting."
Miss S. Shaw, of Wahpeton, N. D.,
made a humorous address about "The Phetors that Lead."

The fair sex predominated in Audi-
meeting. Prof. James Lewis Howe, of Lexington, Va., having it in charge.
F. H. Jacobs, of Brooklyn, led the chorus and music. The meeting was called "The Twentieth Century Christian Endeavor Society," and was largely devoted to an opening parliamentary session. President Francis Clark, of Boston, gave some of his ideas on "Advanced Steps for the
New Year." "The Training of Our Secretaries" was treated by Miss Margaret Cook, of Water Hill, Me. W.
H. Ball, of Philadelphia, conducted the open parliament, and E. G. Rott-

be Done With Good Literature." Alexander E. Matheson, of Janesville, Wis., explained "Social Committees that Are Social," and "The Money Side
of It" was discussed by John Henry Stauff, of Charleston, S. C., followed.
"The Way to Make Christian Endeav-
ers" was discussed by Rev. R. V.
Hunter, of Indianapolis, in a paper on
"How We May Manufacture Christian
Endeavor Citizens." Rev. William Fenhalgon, of Decatur, Ill., spoke
on "Graduating Into the Twentieth Century Church," and the meeting
Into Christian Endeavor," by Richard
W. Lewis, of Denver.

The local district and state union
officers met during the day and discussed business, as also did the ministers, who held an executive session
in Auditorium Endeavor late in the day.

The prison workers conferred at
the Central Presbyterian church, and
between 5 and 5:30 p. m. President
Clark received all Endeavorers who have been members for 10 years and
longer. The reception took place in the Odeon, adjoining the Music hall
auditoriums, and hundreds took the opportunity to meet Mr. Clark.

TRAIN SIDE SWIPED.

A Number of Persons Received Injuries at Columbus.

Columbus, O., July 9.—Panhandle
passenger train No. 19, known as the New York express, was "side wiped"
by a switch engine just outside the Union station here Monday afternoon.
Twenty-five people were injured,
seven of them being so badly hurt
that they were unable to proceed on their way west with the train.

The following were the most seriously injured:
J. W. Chapin, Indianapolis, side
crushed.

Allen Chavouc, Marion, O., badly
bruised about head.

Cora Jennings, Orrville, O., right
arm sprained.

Mrs. Flynn, Ellwood, Ind., probably
fatally injured.

Leon Coad, Ellwood, Ind., head
badly bruised and bad scalp wound.

Samuel Fulzan, badly bruised and
cut by broken glass.

The passenger train was approaching the station at a rapid speed, when
the switch engine with a cut of cars
dashed out from a siding, striking the third coach of the passenger. The car and the one immediately following were demolished. Both trains
were stopped at once and aid was summoned. The injured were removed to the Union station, where
possible.

Soon as the wreckage could be dumped from the track new cars were substituted and the train proceeded
on its way west.

Man, Who Masqueraded as Man,
Accused of Forgeries.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 9.—The
trial of Ellis Glenn, the woman who
is charged with committing forgery
while in the guise of a man, was commenced yesterday afternoon. Little trouble was experienced in securing
a jury and the opening statements
were made by the opposition counsel.
This morning the taking of evidence
was to begin. Miss Glenn appeared in court heavily veiled until she
was requested to remove the veil.

The opening statements of counsel
for the defense promised to prove that E. B. Glenn, who is accused of forgery, was a man, while Ellis Glenn,
who is on trial, is a woman. The state promises to prove the two identical. Much evidence of a sensational character is promised. Glenn is charged with raising a deed of trust
for $400 to $1,400 and exchanging it
for a $1,200 piece of land and $200
cash.

THE BLEEDING CURE.

OF A CENTURY AGO.

The Barbarous Practice of "Cup-
ping" Suffering Humanity Still Has
Its Adherents—The Operation a
Somewhat Delicate One.

One hundred years ago the sovereign
balm for every ill, from fainting to fe-
folly of the practice. It was the correct method of the day, recommended
and employed by the best physicians of
the time. The surgeon who attended
George Washington in his last illness
first set about bleeding his august patient. The story is that he took several cups of blood from the vigorous arm of Washington and then diagnosed the case. Washington died. Some say that if he had not been bled he probably
would have lived.

The cry comes. But that was a century ago! In sharp contrast stands the wonderful advances made by modern
surgery. Thankfully it may be said
that such is the truth. But sometimes customs die hard, and today the doctrine of "cupping" has devotees as faithful as those who gave up their life sustaining fluid in Washington's
time. This is a startling statement.
The writer would have been skeptical
if he had not learned its truth himself.

In the seventeenth and eighteenth
centuries this gruesome form of treatment was the work of the barber. That guild has maintained its prerogative in-
to the twentieth century. In a certain
little side street in New York, crushed
between two towering brick buildings,
stands a timid story and a half frame
house. The suggestive striped pole
which emblazons the art of the dweller
within juts over the walk. In the window hangs a sign bearing the word
"Cupping." If today were set back to 1700, the pole alone would tell the story. Times, they say, have changed,
and so the sign.

The barber is a German. He was much surprised at the question asked.
Everybody knew that cupping was a
necessity, especially in the spring, he said. Sometimes, he added, he was so busy that little time remained for his
shaving and hair cutting of customers.

"Ach, yes," said the barber, "it keeps
me a busy man. How strange you say that you thought it no longer was
practiced. People come here morning,
noon and night every day, but mostly
do they come here in the spring and
drawing off. If you have a pain in
little cup, burn the air in it out, push
down my little knives just behind your
ear on the neck, and when the cup is full I take it away. If your headache
is not better yet, I take another cup, so
be it that the bleeding stop not, upon
the other side. Maybe your back pains;
I cut you a little on the side. Your arm pains; I draw the blood from your
wrist."

The barber bared his arm. The skin
was crossed with tiny, pale nicks, like
those one sees on the wrist of a morphine victim.
"Twelve is the number of cups I
draw at one sitting," the barber said.
"It is a bad pain that will not be gone
then. If you come again the next day
with the pain, I draw off more until the
ache has disappeared completely."

The cups look like sherry glasses
with the stems removed. The knife,
or lancet, is arranged like a name
stamp. Pressure on a spring plunger
drives the little blades, which are arranged in pairs or triplets, into the skin. It is here that the skill of the operator comes into play. When the incisions are made in the neck too violent, a tap on the plunger might mean
the severing or wounding of an artery.
Pressure too light would not let the blood flow fast enough. The barber
must have a trained touch.

Upon the condition of the cup much depends. The air is exhausted by means of a tiny alcohol flame. This makes a vacuum. The cup is pressed
on lightly, but firmly. The blood rushes
under the skin beneath its rim; then,
like a flash, the little knives are pushed
down, and the bleeding begins. The operator never takes more than 12 cups
at one sitting. That would mean perhaps a half pint of blood.

This system of bleeding for human ailments harks back to the earliest times. All through the middle ages it was the healing balm for the sufferings
of mankind. The ancients firmly believed that the loss of blood in this manner drew from their systems the
"noxious humors" which afflicted them.
The advent of the modern school of medicine and surgery did away with
the process as a universal therapeutic measure. It was not until the nineteenth century was nearly half completed, however, that physicians abandoned it as a practice.—New York Tribune.

Sweeping.

A young man who had just entered the office of Jeremiah Mason, the great New Hampshire legal luminary, to study law asked him where he should begin. Mason, pointing to the books on the library shelves, answered laconically, "Anywhere."

ENGLISH SPARROWS.

Dates at Which These Birds Were Imported Into This Country.

I have been asked several times lately at what date the common English sparrows were imported into the United States and by whom.

It seems that the first attempt was made in 1853 by a private citizen of Portland, Me. In the fall of that year
he liberated six sparrows, and they immediately made themselves at home in his garden and outbuildings. For a few years these birds and their descendants were seen in and about the town in small squads. These birds
multiplied until in the winter of 1871
a flock of them appeared in every near-
by town, thus showing their tendency
to spread over adjoining territory.

About 1890 12 birds were imported
and liberated near Madison square,
New York city, and this was repeated
for several seasons.

In 1864 the commissioners of New York liberated 14 birds in Central park.
About this time numerous persons returning from abroad brought a few
birds home and set them at liberty in
and about Jersey City.

The craze for importing these birds
spread, and in 1868 the city government of Boston imported a great number. But the birds had not been carefully handled, and they did not thrive,
and others were brought over. The
birds which survived from these various importations were carefully fed
and looked after by the city government.

In 1869 a thousand were imported
and liberated in the city of Philadelphia, and soon the birds spread over
all adjacent territory.

About this time the Smithsonian institution became interested in bringing
these birds to this country, so they imported 300, but most of them died. In 1871 the same institution brought over another lot, and they were successfully
cared for.

From this it is seen that the birds
have started from a number of points
and were not one or two importations
to New York, as is usually supposed.—

STOVES.

Owing to the mildness of the climate
in Portugal heating stoves are rarely
used in that country.

Heating and cooking stoves are both
used by the upper classes in Greece,
but the lower classes still live without
using either.

Very few heating and cooking stoves
are used in Paraguay. All the houses
have brick stoves built in them, so that
iron stoves have little or no sale.

Stoves made of tiling are in general
use in Austria. They are said to be superior to iron stoves on account of the great economy of fuel possible by their use.

There is in the Mediterranean countries a widespread prejudice against all artificial heat, and consequently not more than one house in six is ever heated during the winter time.

Iron cooking stoves are almost an unknown luxury among the people of South America and the West Indies.
They still cook in open fireplaces and
by other primitive methods.

The cooking stove, as it is known in
the United States, does very little service in France. A few are in use in the country, but in most farmhouses the
cooking is done in a large open fireplace. In the cities a furnace is built in the small kitchen.

Paying the Landlord.

The proprietor of one of the new
apartment houses near Fifth avenue
has paid a rather heavy penalty for having a cartoonist as one of his tenants. The artist wanted some changes made in the decoration of his apartment, and the proprietor declined to make them. The proprietor's features
are pronounced, and he wears long,
flowing side whiskers. His face, distorted to suit the cartoonist's fancy,
has appeared nearly every week in one
of the comic papers. Sometimes the proprietor figures as the villain and
again as the countryman who is bunkoed every week in the pages of this publication. The cartoonist lets the whiskers grow from week to week;
then, just as his victim imagines that
they will grow so long that his friend
will not recognize him, the artist trims
the whiskers down again. The proprietor of the apartment house has concluded that the only way in which he can get even with the cartoonist is to put in a bill for services as model.—New York Sun.

Disheartening.

Even the clergyman, noble and inspiring as his vocation is, has now and
then his bad moments.

"Oh, sir," said a poor woman to a Scotch minister, who was by no means a popular preacher, "well do I like the
day when you give us the sermon."

"Indeed!" said the minister, dashing with pleasure. "I wish there were more like you, my good woman. It is seldom I hear such words from any one."

"Maybe their hearing's stronger than
mine, sir," said the woman promptly,
"but when you preach I can always get
a good seat."—Youth's Companion.

A Clock Run by Balls.

A clock owned in England is run by balls which fall into pockets on the right side of a wheel, which revolves
and operates the works. The balls drop
into a drawer when the wheel revolves
far enough. The clock is "wound up"
by placing the balls in a receptacle on top of the clock.—Jewelers' Circular-Weekly.

The first anthracite coal known to be such was discovered at Mauch Chunk,
Pa., in 1791. The Lehigh Coal Mining company began business in the same year, making a commodity of the recent discovery.

AN IDEAL FOOD.

Nutritious Value of Woadnu, Cultivated by Negroes in Africa.

In a communication to the state department at Washington Richard
Guenther, consul general at Frankfurt,
Germany, says:

"German papers speak of an annual
plant growing in tropical Africa, belonging to the leguminous class, which
is largely cultivated by the negroes
troduced to some extent in southern Asia and in Brazil. It is called woadnu by the African negroes. The botanical name is Glycine subterranea.

"The French expert chemist of all-
ments has recently analyzed the fruit of the woadnu with reference to its chemical composition and its value as
food. The fruit, like the peanut, matures under ground. The eatable kernel has the shape of an egg and is dark and red, with black stripes and
a white hilum, like most beans. It furnishes a very white flour, whose flavor
after cooking much resembles that of chestnuts. The chemical composition
is 58 per cent of starchy substance, 19
per cent nitrogenous, 10 per cent water, 6 per cent oil, 4 per cent cellulose
substance and 3 per cent ashes. It will be seen that two pounds of these beans would supply the daily requirements of the human system.

"M. Ballard, who has had wide experience in the chemistry of nutri-
ments, calls this fruit the first one
found by him in a natural state which shows all the chemical properties of a perfect nutriment."

Confront Delegates at the Ohio Democratic Convention

ONE JOHNSON; ONE McLEAN.

Preliminary Work of the Convention Expected to Be Finished Today. Railway Trainmen Official Urging Nomination of Monnett.

Columbus, O., July 9.—The Democratic state convention is expected to do all of its preliminary work today. It was understood that Hon. Charles W. Baker, who was presiding officer at the last Democratic Ohio convention, will be the permanent chairman. He is a close friend of McLean and chairman of the Hamilton county delegation.

Johnson represents what is called the "radical reform" element among platform makers and McLean represents the conservative element. The indications yesterday were that the conservative element would control the committee on resolutions and adopt what is known as the Cincinnati platform, rather than the Cleveland platform. The platforms are so designated because it is known that two platforms have already been constructed, one in Cincinnati and the other in Cleveland, and drafts of the one was brought here yesterday by Temporary Chairman Salem and others from Cleveland, and of the other by Judson Harmon, Harlan Cleveland and others from Cincinnati. The former radically changes the system of taxation and puts the burden of taxation on the corporations, especially on railways, and on this issue is the principal contention before the convention. In view of the absence of Mayor Johnson it is thought that there will not be much contest over the platform, and there will be no contests for nominations except for minor places on the state ticket, as all concede that Colonel James Kilbourne, of Columbus, will be nominated for governor and that a conference of his friends today will select the man for lieutenant governor, and that "no slate" for other places will be considered, so that the free-for-all fights for judge and clerk of the supreme court, attorney general, state treasurer and member of the board of public works may protract the convention to a late hour on Wednesday evening.

In anticipation of contests over the platform and the nomination for governor, as well as over everything else, the state committee had named 300 assistant sergeant-at-arms, but with the conservatives or the McLean men in full control, and the "reformers," without their leaders, Mayor Johnson and Colonel Kilbourne, with votes to spare for the nomination for governor, the proceedings will likely be so harmonious that these sergeant-at-arms will have nothing to do, except to wear their badges. Neither Temporary Chairman Salem nor the permanent chairman may make any unusual utterance, and the only differences over the platform is in the verbiage of the plank for a revision of the taxation laws. The Johnson men want to name the railways, while the McLean men want this phraseology in general terms. It is conceded that there will be no reference to municipal ownership or to the Kansas City platform. The platform as drafted will say that the money question is settled, and will demand reformations on new issues, notably local and state taxation, home rule in municipalities, including municipal ownership, and opposition to all trusts.

Val Fitzpatrick, of Cleveland, vice president of the Railway Trainmen, came here from his work in New York to urge the nomination of Frank S. Monnett for attorney general. Monnett was attorney general from 1896 to 1900, as a Republican. He supported Bryan last year on the anti-trust issue, and is now in full accord with "the proposed new departure" of Mayor Johnson, who has written letters favoring Monnett. The McLean men are opposing Monnett openly and vigorously.

Former State Senator D. N. Zalsberger, by letter, yesterday withdrew as a candidate for supreme judge. The candidates and most of the delegates were here last night. After the arrival of J. L. Zimmerman and his friends from Springfield yesterday there were repeated conferences to induce Zimmerman to accept second place, but he declined, and insisted that his name would be presented for governor. He said: "A young man like myself can afford to be defeated for governor, but I cannot afford to be buried in the lieutenant governorship."

A DECLINE IN PRICES.

Dislodged Large Holdings in Stock Market—Apparently Support Had Been Withdrawn.

New York, July 9.—The episode of the Seventh National bank failure and of the bank failures in Buffalo have become sufficiently clear to indicate that they are not of prime importance in the immediate losses involved or in the immediate collateral effects in the stock market, but as a possible symptom of general conditions they have received serious attention. The accumulation of doubtful securities has always proved a consequence of a period of industrial expansion, business prosperity and the general credit which is thereby caused. The Seventh national bank episode has undoubtedly induced a general overhauling of collateral by the banks of Wall street district. Not a little liquidation has been immediately induced as a result.

In the stock market there have been large speculative holdings which were withdrawn from sale only by reason of the support which has been accorded to prices by large syndicates and moneyed interests. The indications were that a considerable part of this support was withdrawn Monday and large holdings were dislodged by the decline of prices which was allowed to occur. The selling was concentrated in character, the bulk of it coming from a few stock exchange houses, which have often acted for western capitalists, some of whom had become prominent in the steel trade before the formation of the United States Steel corporation and have been relegated to the background since the rise of that corporation. The selling attributed to this source was enormous, not only of the United States Steel stocks themselves, but of the railroad stocks which led the slump. The immediate cause of the weakness of this group was the reported announcement by the Atchison authorities that freight rates would be cut in the Chicago-Missouri river territory July 15. As the railroads in this territory comprise the principal properties supposed to have been brought into community of interest, and as there has been a large speculation in them founded on this supposition, the hostility manifested by a cutting of rates made them peculiarly vulnerable. They led the decline all day, with only occasional straggling rallies on covering by bear traders. In the final break St. Paul fell an extreme 10%, Missouri Pacific 8, Union Pacific 7%, Atchison 6%, and United States Steel, which had offered some resistance during the day, suddenly dropped 4 points under very heavy offerings. While the general market was less acutely affected, there were some very sharp losses recorded among the New York public utilities, the most prominent industrial and the eastern trunk lines and coalers. The declines in these ranged from 3 to 7 points in the principal cases, and the market closed in a semi-demoralized condition. The call loan rate was offered down from 8 per cent in the morning to 2 per cent at the close, without relieving the weakness of the stock market. Rumors of financial difficulties could not be traced to any reliable source, nor could anything be learned to justify them. Growing uneasiness was expressed over the requirements of the money market for the coming crop and a doubt whether there would be any considerable reflux on funds to New York previous to the crop movement.

Confront Delegates at the Ohio Democratic Convention

ONE JOHNSON; ONE McLEAN.

Columbus, O., July 9.—The Democratic state convention is expected to do all of its preliminary work today. It was understood that Hon. Charles W. Baker, who was presiding officer at the last Democratic Ohio convention, will be the permanent chairman. He is a close friend of McLean and chairman of the Hamilton county delegation.

Johnson represents what is called the "radical reform" element among platform makers and McLean represents the conservative element. The indications yesterday were that the conservative element would control the committee on resolutions and adopt what is known as the Cincinnati platform, rather than the Cleveland platform. The platforms are so designated because it is known that two platforms have already been constructed, one in Cincinnati and the other in Cleveland, and drafts of the one was brought here yesterday by Temporary Chairman Salem and others from Cleveland, and of the other by Judson Harmon, Harlan Cleveland and others from Cincinnati. The former radically changes the system of taxation and puts the burden of taxation on the corporations, especially on railways, and on this issue is the principal contention before the convention. In view of the absence of Mayor Johnson it is thought that there will not be much contest over the platform, and there will be no contests for nominations except for minor places on the state ticket, as all concede that Colonel James Kilbourne, of Columbus, will be nominated for governor and that a conference of his friends today will select the man for lieutenant governor, and that "no slate" for other places will be considered, so that the free-for-all fight for judge and clerk of the supreme court, attorney general, state treasurer and member of the board of public works may protract the convention to a late hour on Wednesday evening.

In anticipation of contests over the platform and the nomination for governor, as well as over everything else, the state committee had named 300 assistant secretaries, but with the conservatives or the McLean men in full control, and the "reformers," without their leaders, Mayor Johnson and Colonel Kilbourne, with votes to spare for the nomination for governor, the proceedings will likely be so harmonious that these sergeant-at-arms will have nothing to do, except to wear their badges. Neither Temporary Chairman Salem nor the permanent chairman may make any unusual utterance, and the only differences over the platform is in the verbiage of the plank for a revision of the taxation laws. The Johnson men want to name the railways, while the McLean men want this phraseology in general terms. It is conceded that there will be no reference to municipal ownership or to the Kansas City platform. The platform as drafted will say that the money question is settled, and will demand reformations on new issues, notably local and state taxation, home rule in municipalities, including municipal ownership, and opposition to all trusts.

Val Fitchpatrick, of Cleveland, vice president of the Railway Trainmen, came here from his work in New York to urge the nomination of Frank S. Monnett for attorney general. Monnett was attorney general from 1896 to 1900, as a Republican. He supported Bryan last year on the anti-trust issue, and is now in full accord with "the proposed new departure" of Mayor Johnson, who has written letters favoring Monnett. The McLean men are opposing Monnett openly and vigorously.

Former State Senator D. N. Zalsgaberger, by letter, yesterday withdrew as a candidate for supreme judge. The candidates and most of the delegates were here last night.

After the arrival of J. L. Zimmerman and his friends from Springfield yesterday there were repeated conferences to induce Zimmerman to accept second place, but he declined, and insisted that his name would be presented for governor. He said: "A young man like myself can afford to be defeated for governor, but I cannot afford to be buried in the lieutenant governorship."

A DECLINE IN PRICES.

Dislodged Large Holdings in Stock Market—Apparently Support Had Been Withdrawn.

New York, July 9.—The episode of the Seventh National bank failure and of the bank failures in Buffalo have become sufficiently clear to indicate that they are not of prime importance in the immediate collateral effects in the stock market, but as a possible symptom of general conditions they have received serious attention. The accumulation of doubtful securities has always proved a consequence of a period of industrial expansion, business prosperity, and the general credit which is thereby caused. The Seventh national bank episode has undoubtedly induced a general overhauling of collateral by the banks of Wall street district. Not a little liquidation has been immediately induced as a result.

In the stock market there have been large speculative holdings which were withheld from sale only by reason of the support which has been accorded to prices by large syndicates and moneyed interests. The indications were that a considerable part of this support was withdrawn Monday and large holdings were dislodged by the decline of prices which was allowed to occur. The selling was concentrated in character, the bulk of it coming from a few stock exchange houses, which have often acted for western capitalists, some of whom had become prominent in the steel trade before the formation of the United States Steel corporation and have been relegated to the background since the rise of that corporation. The selling attributed to this source was enormous, not only of the United States Steel stocks themselves, but of the railroad stocks which led the slump. The immediate cause of the weakness of this group was the reported announcement by the Atchison authorities that freight rates would be cut in the Chicago-Missouri river territory July 15. As the railroads in this territory comprise the principal properties supposed to have been brought into community of interest, and as there has been a large speculation in them founded on this supposition, the hostility manifested by a cutting of rates made them peculiarly vulnerable. They led the decline all day, with only occasional straggling rallies on covering by bear traders. In the final hour St. Paul fell an extreme 10%, Missouri Pacific 8%, Union Pacific 7%, Atchison 6%, and United States Steel, which had offered some resistance during the day, suddenly dropped 4 points under very heavy offerings. While the general market was less acutely affected, there were some very sharp losses recorded among the New York public utilities, the most prominent industrials and the eastern trunk lines and coalers. The declines in these ranged from 3 to 7 points in the principal cases, and the market closed in a semi-demoralized condition. The call loan rate was offered down from 8 per cent in the morning to 2 per cent at the close, without relieving the weakness of the stock market. Rumors of financial difficulties could not be traced to any reliable source, nor could anything be learned to justify them. Growing uneasiness was expressed over the requirements of the money market for the coming crop and a doubt whether there would be any considerable reflux on funds to New York previous to the crop movement.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT

BRICKLAYER ATTACKED BY ONE OF HIS HELPERS.

Struck on the Head With a Heavy Piece of Gas Pipe And Badly Hurt.

Sebring, July 9.—Thomas Cavanaugh, a bricklayer, employed at the new pottery in course of construction, was murderously assaulted yesterday afternoon by A. E. Larkins, a helper.

Both were at work on one of the kilns and Cavanaugh asked Larkins to wheel his brick a little nearer to the kiln. Larkins became enraged and, picking up a piece of gas pipe several feet long, rushed at Cavanaugh and struck several blows at him without effect. Finally he succeeded in landing a heavy blow on Cavanaugh's head, felling him to the ground senseless.

The blow was rather a glancing one, and cut a gash three or four inches long, laying bare the skull, and it is probable that this alone saved Cavanaugh's life.

After dealing the murderous blow Larkins immediately left his work and headed toward Alliance. The police of that city were notified to watch for him, but he has not yet been apprehended. He claims to be a reformed gambler and was supposed to be deeply religious since his reformation. He posed as a Bible scholar, but has an uncontrollable temper.

Cavanaugh's injuries are of a severe nature, but it is believed he will recover.

W. Watson, which gave me immediate relief, and I afterward bought a fifty cent bottle, which I can truthfully say gave me more relief than anything I have ever tried.—R. B. Hurd. IN PLAINTIFF'S FAVOR

Case of Martha Blair Vs. Emma Hanlon And Jane Nubian Decided.

Before Justice McLane this morning the long drawn-out suit in which Martha Blair, of Wellsville, sought to regain possession of a piano which she had sold on the installment plan to Emma Hanlon and Jane Nubian, of this city, was tried by a jury.

Attorneys F. E. Lones and G. Y. Travis represented the plaintiff and defendants, respectively. Both lawyers confined their arguments chiefly to quotations from the statutes and made strong appeals to the jury. After considering the case about half an hour, the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. The costs of the suit amount to about $30, as this was the second time it was tried, the jury in the first trial disagreeing.

"Kid" Barker pitched for Sebring in a game with Wooster yesterday and defeated the latter by a score of 2 to 1. It required 12 innings to decide the contest and the battle was an exciting one. The game is said to have been one of the best and fastest ever played on the Wooster grounds.

The Monaca base ball team will arrive in this city Thursday for a series of three games with the local club. An invitation has been extended to the delegates to the Brotherhood convention to attend the game and they will likely accept.

JOHN MURRAY AND PETER MALEY HAVE RETURNED.

Both Went From Columbiana County And Have Enough of Soldiering.

John Murray and Peter Maley, two members of Co. M, 47th U. S. volunteers, are home from the Philippines. Murray arrived here last evening. He was formerly a member of Co. F, Eighth O. V. I., of this city, and served in Cuba. He later joined the 47th and has seen considerable active service. After a few weeks rest he contemplates joining a party to leave for Brazil. Although of an adventurous turn of mind Murray says he has had enough of the Philippines and will henceforth spend his time elsewhere.

Murray married a young lady in East Liverpool in 1896 and within an hour after the ceremony the young wife deserted her husband and he has not seen her since.

Peter Maley, the other soldier, is from Salineville. He also says he has had enough soldiering and will now retire to civilian life.

When Hurry Was the Fashion.

The following extract from the London Times of May 14, 1801, gives an interesting picture of the good old days: "It is now the high fashion to run, or at least to trot, through the streets at a rate of six miles an hour. A running walk is absolutely necessary for any young man who has the least pretension to ton. You must lounge in a hurry and saunter with expedition. It is an old proverb, the more haste the more speed, but Bond street daily shows us the more hurry the less to do. When we see our idle youths riding race horses, walking for wagers or boxing for fame, we must agree with Horace that 'strenua nos exercet inertia.'"

Ceaseless Growth of the Ears.

The systematic examination of more than 40,000 pairs of human ears in England and France has resulted in some interesting conclusions. For one thing, it is ascertained that the ear continues to grow in the later decades of life. In fact, it appears never to stop growing until death. A woman who has small, shell-like ears at 20 years of age will be very apt to possess medium sized ears at 40 years and large ears at 60. — Saturday Evening Post.

A Puzzler.

Lady Passenger—Do you know, captain, I have never been able to understand how you find your way across the ocean?

Captain—Why, by the compass. The needle always points to the north.

Lady Passenger—Yes, I know, but supposing you want to go south?—Glasgow Times.

COULDN'T CALL HIM CRAZY.

Just a Newspaper Headliner Mumbling From Force of Habit.

The young man with the haggard look sat in the rear car of an elevated train, staring and staring at one of the advertisements.

"English beauty shoes," he mumbled to his companion. "That's what he says."

"Yes," said the other, "but that's too short."

"Hm, hm," the haggard man replied.

"Beautiful shoes from England!"

"Well, then, 'Beautiful English shoes'—"

"That's only three words. You've got to have four, you know."

"That's so, that's so. Ah, I have it!"

He cried so loud that all the other passengers in the car gave a jump. "English shoes of beauty," 23 letters and spaces at last.

A compassionate old man looked up from his newspaper.

"What's the matter with your friend?" he asked. "Is the chap suffering from delirium tremens?"

"Oh, no," the man addressed replied assuredly. "You see, he's just through with his night's work on a morning newspaper. He's a headline writer, you know, and after a fellow has scribbled off headlines of 23 letters and spaces for about eight hours steady he contracts that habit and can't get over it. Every advertisement, every scrap of paper he sees for several hours afterward until his mind gets rested—well, he begins to count the letters and spaces and turn the wording into a headline that will fit. It isn't exactly delirium tremens. It's something worse. The headlines of 23 letters and spaces go wriggling around in that poor overworked brain much worse than snakes."—Chicago Chronicle.

MILTON RELICS AT HARVARD

Signature in an Autograph Album and the Poet's Copy of "Pindar."

The Harvard library numbers among its treasures an autograph of Milton and a copy of "Pindar" annotated in Milton's own handwriting, with marginal notes in Greek and Latin. Both of these rarities were bequeathed to the university by Charles Sumner.

The "Pindar" is dated 1620 and was doubtless used by Milton during his stay at Cambridge university. At the end he has added an alphabetical index in manuscript, occupying two closely written pages of all the authors cited in his notes, with references to the pages in which their names occur.

Milton's autograph is found in the pages of an autograph album or visitors' book kept, according to a custom common in the sixteenth century, by a Neapolitan nobleman, Camillus Cardon by name, who resided in Geneva from 1605 to 1640, where Milton, apparently, visited him. Another autograph in this same album among the hundreds which it contains is that of Thomas Wentworth, the unfortunate Earl of Stafford. Milton's signature is dated Jan. 10, 1639, and is appended to a Latin motto—"Travel changes one's sky, but not one's mind." It may be freely rendered and a quotation from his own "Comus":

"If Virtue feeble were,
Heaven itself would stoop to her."

The most notable Milton manuscript known to exist is a little book now owned by Trinity college, Cambridge, England, which contains the poet's copies of his so called minor poems, including "L'Allegro" and "Il Penseroso." In this country, however, it is said that the only original memorials of the great author of "Paradise Lost" are to be found in these two time stained volumes in the possession of the Harvard library.

Badly Hurt.

Sebring, July 9.—Thomas Cavanaugh, a bricklayer, employed at the new pottery in course of construction, was murderously assaulted yesterday afternoon by A. E. Larkins, a helper.

Both were at work on one of the kilns and Cavanaugh asked Larkins to wheel his brick a little nearer to the kiln. Larkins became enraged and, picking up a piece of gas pipe several feet long, rushed at Cavanaugh and struck several blows at him without effect. Finally he succeeded in landing a heavy blow on Cavanaugh's head, felling him to the ground senseless.

The blow was rather a glancing one, and cut a gash three or four inches long, laying bare the skull, and it is probable that this alone saved Cavanaugh's life.

After dealing the murderous blow Larkins immediately left his work and headed toward Alliance. The police of that city were notified to watch for him, but he has not yet been apprehended. He claims to be a reformed gambler and was supposed to be deeply religious since his reformation. He posed as a Bible scholar, but has an uncontrollable temper.

Cavanaugh's injuries are of a severe nature, but it is believed he will recover.

Stoutsville, Mo., May 5, 1900.

Gentlemen—I have been troubled with indigestion and constipation for the past two years, and have tried every remedy known, and had never received any relief until I was handed a trial bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin through our druggist, J. W. Watson, which gave me immediate relief, and I afterward bought a fifty-cent bottle, which I can truthfully say gave me more relief than anything I have ever tried—R. B. Hurd. IN PLAINTIFF'S FAVOR

Case of Martha Blair Vs. Emma Hanlon And Jane Nubian Decided.

Before Justice McLane this morning the long drawn-out suit in which Martha Blair, of Wellsville, sought to regain possession of a piano which she had sold on the installment plan to Emma Hanlon and Jane Nubian, of this city, was tried by a jury.

Attorneys F. E. Lones and G. Y. Travis represented the plaintiff and defendants, respectively. Both lawyers confined their arguments chiefly to quotations from the statutes and made strong appeals to the jury. After considering the case about half an hour, the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. The costs of the suit amount to about $30, as this was the second time it was tried, the jury in the first trial disagreeing.

The Monaca base ball team will arrive in this city Thursday for a series of three games with the local club. An invitation has been extended to the delegates to the Brotherhood convention to attend the game and they will likely accept.

Soldiering.

John Murray and Peter Maley, two members of Co. M, 47th U. S. volunteers, are home from the Philippines. Murray arrived here last evening. He was formerly a member of Co. F, Eighth O. V. I., of this city, and served in Cuba. He later joined the 47th and has seen considerable active service. After a few weeks rest he contemplates joining a party to leave for Brazil. Although of an adventurous turn of mind Murray says he has had enough of the Philippines and will henceforth spend his time elsewhere.

Murray married a young lady in East Liverpool in 1896 and within an hour after the ceremony the young wife deserted her husband and he has not seen her since.

Peter Maley, the other soldier, is from Salineville. He also says he has had enough soldiering and will now retire to civilian life.

When Hurry Was the Fashion.

The following extract from the London Times of May 14, 1801, gives an interesting picture of the good old days: "It is now the high fashion to run, or at least to trot, through the streets at a rate of six miles an hour. A running walk is absolutely necessary for any young man who has the least pretension to ton. You must lounge in a hurry and saunter with expedition. It is an old proverb, the more haste the more speed, but Bond street daily shows us the more hurry the less to do. When we see our idle youths riding race horses, walking for wagers or boxing for fame, we must agree with Horace that 'strenua nos exercet inertia.'"

Ceaseless Growth of the Ears.

The systematic examination of more than 40,000 pairs of human ears in England and France has resulted in some interesting conclusions. For one thing, it is ascertained that the ear continues to grow in the later decades of life. In fact, it appears never to stop growing until death. A woman who has small, shell-like ears at 20 years of age will be very apt to possess medium sized ears at 40 years and large ears at 60. — Saturday Evening Post.

A Puzzler.

Lady Passenger—Do you know, captain, I have never been able to understand how you find your way across the ocean?

Just a Newspaper Headliner Num-bling From Force of Habit.

The young man with the haggard look sat in the rear car of an elevated train, staring and staring at one of the advertisements.

"English beauty shoes," he mumbled to his companion. "That's what he says."

"Hm, hm," the haggard man replied.

"Beautiful shoes from England?"

"Well, then, 'Beautiful English shoes'?"

"That's only three words. You've got to have four, you know."

"That's so, that's so. Ah, I have it!"

A compassionate old man looked up from his newspaper.

"What's the matter with your friend?" he asked. "Is the chap suffering from delirium tremens?"

"Oh, no," the man addressed replied assuringly. "You see, he's just through with his night's work on a morning newspaper. He's a headline writer, you know, and after a fellow has scribbled off headlines of 23 letters and spaces for about eight hours steady he contracts that habit and can't get over it. Every advertisement, every scrap of paper he sees for several hours afterward until his mind gets rested—well, he begins to count the letters and spaces and turn the wording into a headline that will fit. It isn't exactly delirium tremens. It's something worse. The headlines of 23 letters and spaces go wriggling around in that poor overworked brain much worse than snakes."—Chicago Chronicle.

MILTON RELICS AT HARVARD

Signature in an Autograph Album and the Poet's Copy of "Pindar."

The Harvard library numbers among its treasures an autograph of Milton and a copy of "Pindar" annotated in Milton's own handwriting, with marginal notes in Greek and Latin. Both of these rarities were bequeathed to the university by Charles Sumner.

The "Pindar" is dated 1620 and was doubtless used by Milton during his stay at Cambridge university. At the end he has added an alphabetical index in manuscript, occupying two closely written pages of all the authors cited in his notes, with references to the pages in which their names occur.

Milton's autograph is found in the pages of an autograph album or visitors' book kept, according to a custom common in the sixteenth century, by a Neapolitan nobleman, Camillus Cardoyn by name, who resided in Geneva from 1608 to 1640, where Milton, apparently, visited him. Another autograph in this same album among the hundreds which it contains is that of Thomas Wentworth, the unfortunate Earl of Stafford. Milton's signature is dated Jan. 10, 1639, and is appended to a Latin motto—"Travel changes one's sky, but not one's mind," it may be freely rendered and a quotation from his own "Comus":

"If Virtue feeble were,
Heaven itself would stoop to her."

The most notable Milton manuscript known to exist is a little book now owned by Trinity college, Cambridge, England, which contains the poet's copies of his so called minor poems, including "L'Allegro" and "Il Penseroso." In this country, however, it is said that the only original memorials of the great author of "Paradise Lost" are to be found in these two time stained volumes in the possession of the Harvard library.

BROTHERHOOD CONVENTION GETS DOWN TO BUSINESS

In the Organization if His Advice Is Taken—The Eastern Question an Important One And Will Receive the Convention's Attention.

This morning's session—the first real business meeting of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning by President A. S. Hughes.

The credential committee made a partial report at the beginning of the meeting, and they were continued. It is hardly likely that the committee will have finished their work before the Wednesday morning meeting.

The committee on rules and order of business, the only other matter arranged for yesterday, reported that the hours to govern the convention would be from 9 to 12 and from 2 to 5.

Owing to the many changes made in the representation of the various unions it was found impossible for the president to make the appointments of his other committees, and it was deferred to the afternoon meeting.

At the very beginning the disposition to dispose of the business in the shortest time possible was manifested, and as a result the reports of President Hughes and Vice Presidents Hutchins and Jackson were read and received during the forenoon session.

President Hughes' report was a voluminous document, covering 33 pages of typewriting. In it he reviewed the work of the past year coming under his jurisdiction, and made a great many suggestions which experience had taught would be of benefit to the organization. The necessity for a more thorough organization of the various crafts connected with the industry was covered at length. The finishers and jiggers' assistants should be a part of the Brotherhood, and the president covered the subjects in a thorough and comprehensive manner. The importance of this move was made clear by reference to the recent difficulty involving the warehouse women, in which it was shown that so important was their department that every branch of the industry was tied up in consequence. It is safe to say that few if any officers could have covered the ground taken in by the report of President Hughes with the same degree of brevity, and at the same time embody the volume of information contained in the document presented this morning.

Vice Presidents Hutchins, of Trenton, and Jackson, of Akron, submitted their reports, which, while not covering the wide scope contained in that of the president, will be of considerable value to the convention. They consisted in the main of information gathered through their connection with the organization, and suggestions as to the future policy of the same.

The report of Secretary Duffy was read at the beginning of the afternoon session and was well received.

George Smith, of local union No. 9, kilnmen, East Liverpool, was made assistant secretary and will aid Secretary Duffy throughout the convention.

The entertainment committee has provided for the amusement of the delegates this evening, and they will be well taken care of.

A VITAL QUESTION

WITH WHICH THE CONVENTION WILL HAVE TO DEAL.

The Eastern Problem Forcing Itself to the Front—Its Serious Phases.

One of the most vital questions with which the eleventh annual convention

Two years ago when the national convention was held in Trenton the indications were favorable for the thorough organization of that district into the Brotherhood. Not long afterward, however, the interest waned and by the time the Wheeling meeting was held last year it was said by those not friendly to the Brotherhood that there was not a corporal's guard of the loyal ones left. This was not true, but the officials of the national organization realized that it was not as it should be, and steps were taken at that time to bring the eastern men into line. The result has been an improvement to a certain extent, but the condition of affairs is anything but satisfactory at the present time. The seceders in the east have annoyed the officials greatly during the past year, and the unreliable reports sent out by irresponsible correspondents have but aggravated the situation.

In the enforcement of the uniform scale in the west, which means that eight-tenths of the pottery plants in the United States have been brought under the same regulation, the N. B. of O. P. has accomplished something that had the effort been made by any others than the men who represented the Brotherhood, would never have been carried to a successful issue. For this reason it is a matter which should and doubtless does interest every member of the organization to make it a part of the business of this convention to adopt measures that will ultimately result in the thorough organization of the potters of the east.

Methods without number have been suggested from time to time during the past year for the accomplishment of this end, but they could not be put into execution for the reason that those who had the matter in hand could go so far and no farther without authority from the proper source. Every representative at the present meeting, if he has taken the trouble to post himself, realizes the seriousness of the question, and the responsibility which rests upon him as a member of the body that must deal with the subject.

There is another phase of the question which must be taken into consideration, and that is the fact that the manufacturers have taken advantage of the inability of the Brotherhood to perfect a solid organization in the Trenton district and have confined the enforcement of the uniform list to the west. While the eastern operators are all connected with the United States association, there is a separate combination of the western manufacturers, who hold that there is no argument that could be used which would justify the U. S. association dealing with the Brotherhood looking to a uniform scale in the United States, while conditions remain as they are in the east.

TO FIX FREIGHT RATES

EAST LIVERPOOL MEN TO ATTEND A CHICAGO CONFERENCE.

This City Discriminated Against in Rates on Pottery Products.

H. P. Knoblock and Colonel W. C. Watson, representing the pottery district, which comprises this city, Steubenville, Wheeling, Wellsville, East Palestine, Sebring, Fallston and Canonsburg, left yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where they will meet a freight committee of the western and southwestern railroads in the interest of the earthenware business of the district.

Of late this district has been discriminated against in the way of freight rates, the goods of England being laid down at interior points at ridiculous low figures, thus making it hard for the manufacturers to place their products on the market. It is thought a satisfactory agreement will be reached.

WORK RESUMED

Laughlin No. 2 Plant Started Up in Several Departments.

Work was resumed in many of the departments at Laughlin No. 2 today. The kiln placers are still idle, but the kiln drawers are at work. The clay shops are also all running.

The starting of the plant was rather a surprise at this time, as most of the employees had expected a longer rest. None of the other East End potteries have as yet resumed.

POTTERS' PICNIC A BIG SUCCESS

A GOOD BASEBALL GAME

Between Unions 4 and 12—The Pressers Came Off Victorious Without Difficulty—Other Features of the Day at the Park.

The annual picnic of the National Brotherhood held at Rock Springs yesterday afternoon was a pronounced success, and the manner in which the crowd enjoyed itself reflects credit upon those in charge.

About 4,500 people were present, and the organization is a substantial amount to the good for having held the outing. The crowd amused themselves at the many sources of recreation provided by the park people, the dancing pavilion being occupied during the entire afternoon and evening. The crowd was made up in the main of potters and their families, and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyed.

A handicap foot race had been arranged, but owing to the small number of entries it was declared off. This can be attributed to the fact that during the past few years East Liverpool people have allowed this form of sport to go by the board, and that talent is very scarce.

The main feature of the afternoon's enjoyment was the ball game between teams made up of members of local union Nos. 4 and 12. The teams had been selected for several weeks and while practice was in progress a great deal of interest has been aroused. The locals are two of the largest in the city and each side had their supporters. When the teams lined up the interest was intense. At the beginning of the game the teams were in this form:

No. 4.	No. 12.
Davis.....Catcher.....	Millward.....
J. Emmerling.....Pitcher.....	Winters.....
Smurthwaite.....Short.....	Godwin.....
Finch.....First.....	Gallagher.....
Baxter.....Second.....	McNicol.....
Welsh.....Third.....	Davis.....
Schell.....Middle.....	Lynch.....
Woods.....Right.....	Wooliscroft.....

In the first few innings the pressers demonstrated their superiority, and in three innings had netted 6 runs to their opponents nothing.

J. Emmerling was a puzzler to the jiggersmen and but five hits were secured from his delivery. He is a left-hander and had the other fellows completely at his mercy until the eighth, when his arm went back and he tossed them in. Even then the jiggersmen could make no headway toward winning.

Finch pitched the last half of the ninth for the pressers, and although he makes no professions of being a twirler and pitched an inferior article of ball, the No. 12 boys could not land on the ball.

Not until their half of the eighth did the jiggersmen reach home, and then the tallies were made off errors. Up to that time it looked very much as though they would be shut out completely and a great many of the rooters left the grounds.

Smurthwaite played a great game at short and his stick work was exceptionally good. Following is the score by innings:

Jiggersmen.....0 0 0 0 0 0 2 4—4
Hits—Jiggersmen, 5; Pressers, 9.
Errors—Jiggersmen, 3; Pressers, 2.
Umpires—Kennedy and Dobbs.
The crowd that visited the park in the evening was even larger than that of the afternoon, and many who had been present at the ball game came again in the evening to dance or participate in the many other amusements to be found on the grounds.
So far as the delegates were concerned the entertainment of the afternoon proved sufficient and a great majority of them sought their rooms at an early hour in order to be able to take up the work this morning and carry it through in the shortest time possible.
The success of the Brotherhood picnic is largely due to the untiring efforts of the committee in charge. The crowd was well taken care of and not a complaint was heard from any quarter. In addition to this the general fund of the organization will be richer by many dollars.

GIRLS SENTENCED TO THE WORKHOUSE

May Miller And Jessie Blakeley, of This City, Together With Cliff Christie And W. H. Woolf, of Wellsville, Indulged in a Carousal.

May Miller and Jessie Blakeley, young women, were arrested at an early hour this morning at the corner of Broadway and Cook street, in company with Cliff Christie and H. H. Woolf, both of Wellsville. The roundup was made by Officers Davidson and Stafford.

The girls met their Wellsville friends at the Diamond shortly before midnight. Both were considerably intoxicated and the policemen kept a close watch on them. The quartet started for the East End and the officers followed, keeping close enough to hear what took place and yet being unobserved.

In the vicinity of the Thompson pottery the party sat down and drained the contents of several bottles of beer which they had along with them, and their conduct became so boisterous that several residents of the community were awakened. The officers were about to close in on the disturbers, but before their arrest was effected they had proceeded down the railroad track and reached Broadway before the policemen overtook them.

A few minutes later the quartet was behind the bars of the city prison, where they were held until Mayor Davidson reached his office. All were charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and in the hope of getting off with a light sentence both the men and women pleaded guilty. Christie and Woolf were fined $10 and costs each, and the females were even less fortunate.

Numerous times Mayor Davidson's attention has been called to the actions of the Blakeley girl. She is said to have been making her headquarters in dives, where, with male company she is said to spend the greater part of her time carousing. The Miller girl is a recent recruit, but during her short stay here she has acquired a somewhat unfavorable reputation. The mayor imposed a fine of $25 and costs on each of the women and sentenced them to the Canton workhouse. They will be taken to the institution tomorrow evening.

Christie and Woolf were also committed to the workhouse, but succeeded in raising the money to pay their fines and thus escaped the trip to Canton.

SMALLPOX CASE

Trying to Find the Woman Who Came Here From Lexington, Thought to Be Afflicted.

A representative of the state board of health of Columbus arrived in the city today from Wellsville and is investigating the alleged case of smallpox which was supposed to have originated at Lexington a few weeks ago. The case in question is that of the woman who came to this city from Chester and who was put on a street car by Officer Stafford and sent to Wellsville.

The authorities of the latter city did not learn of the matter until the woman had disappeared, and it is not known what became of her. The Columbus official was unable to get any trace of her, but it is not believed she had the smallpox.

KANAWHA LISK

A 12-Pound Boy Born to East Liverpool Parents on a River Packet.

A 12-pound boy baby was born on the packet Kanawha, Capt. W. E. Roe, several days ago, and Capt. Roe is as proud of the event as the parents of the infant. The mother is Mrs. Richard Lisk, of East Liverpool, and the child was born while the mother was on her way to her old home at New Matamoras, O. She was accompanied by her husband. None of the passengers on the boat would believe that a boy had been born on the steamer until

Capt. Roe carried the little fellow through the cabin and showed him to them.

As the vessel lay at the wharf, Chief Clerk George Hunter, of the steamer, discovered two trunks in the wharf-boat as the steamer was about to back out. They were marked Richard Lisk, New Matamoras. Mr. Hunter did not know the Lisks, but was sure that the trunks belonged to passengers on the boat. He held the steamer until he ascertained about them. Sure enough they did belong to passengers on board and when the baby was born, it was discovered that the little tot's outfit was in the trunks.

There happened to be a physician on board and every care was given to the mother and the child. When New Matamoras was reached Mrs. Lisk and her baby were safely put on shore. The father was so well pleased with the treatment received by the captain and his wife that he at once decided to name the child after the packet.

MEN ENCOURAGED

Good News for Them Is Promised. Discharged Men to Be Reinstated.

An open meeting of the local union of the Amalgamated Association was held yesterday afternoon in Potters' hall at Wellsville. There were seven new names enrolled, George Evans, Charles James and T. M. McGovern, of the carpenters' union, addressed the men.

It was learned last night that word had been indirectly received by all the men who have been discharged that they could go back to work when they were ready. This is in accordance with the word sent out yesterday by President Shaffer that they would not meet the trust representatives until the discharged men are taken back. The following telegram was received from Pittsburg by Organizer George I. Evans yesterday:

"Cannot leave here by early train tomorrow. Will be with you later in the day with good news. Shaffer sends congratulations. CHAPPEL."

This means that Vice President Chappell wants to be on the scene himself. The fight in the Wellsville mill is the most important of all just now, and if it should be lost the men think the chances for the union elsewhere will be very poor. Chappell also sent the following message to Mr. Evans:

"Shaffer and myself join in congratulations to yourself and brethren of Wellsville for splendid work for A. A. Will not meet trust representatives until men are reinstated."

Another meeting was held today.

WASN'T SMALLPOX

Sanitary Officer Burgess Investigated an Alleged Case of the Dread Disease.

Sanitary Officer Burgess investigated an alleged case of smallpox in the West End yesterday afternoon. The patient, who is a potter, has been ill for several weeks and a few days ago a rash appeared on his face. Mr. Burgess was not aware that a physician had been attending the man, but learned that he was afflicted with a mild case of chickenpox.

The report that he had smallpox is thought to have been started by a woman who happened to go into the house and noticed the eruptions on sick man's face.

STRUCK INSENSIBLE

Charles McKenzie, Aged 10, Hit By a Ball And Badly Hurt.

In the third inning of the ball game at Rock Springs yesterday Charles McKenna, aged 10, was hit by a passed ball and it was thought he had been seriously hurt.

Score 17 to 3.

The Hill Tops and Rovers played a game of base ball at West End park yesterday afternoon, resulting in a score of 17 to 3 in favor of the former.

Robert Whan, Aged 70, Hanged Himself In His Sleeping Room.

DAUGHTER FOUND HIM DEAD

He Resided at Columbiana and Had Formerly Been In the Infirmary.

A NOOSE OF HANDKERCHIEFS

Which He Fastened to His Neck And the Bed Post the Means Used to Strangle Himself—Survived by Four Daughters.

Columbiana, July 9. — (Special).—Rather than be a burden to his daughters, Robert Whan, aged 70, hanged himself here last night. His daughter Dolly, with whom he made his home, found him dead in his bedroom about 7 o'clock this morning.

He had taken handkerchiefs, tied them together and made a noose, which he fastened to his neck, attaching the other to the bed post. Then, leaning forward and bearing his weight upon the noose, he had remained there until he strangled.

Mr. Whan had been in the infirmary for some time. He has four daughters and they decided to support him. He imagined he was a burden to his children and that they desired to get rid of him.

One of his daughters is married and lives in Michigan; another is Mrs. Kreidler, of New Castle, Pa.; another Miss Sue, matron at Marshalsea, the Pittsburg city farm, and the fourth Dolly, who kept house for him.

SETTLED FOR $600

RAILROAD COMPANY PAYS WIDOW THIS SUM.

Man Killed at Salem Crossing—Petition to Reduce a Mother's Allowance.

Lisbon, July 9. — (Special).—Judge Boone yesterday authorized Adella Ryser, administrator of the estate of John A. Ryser, late of Salem, to settle with the Pennsylvania company for $600 for the death of her husband. On January 6, 1900, Ryser was struck by a Ft. Wayne train at a Salem crossing and instantly killed. The railroad company denied liability for the accident, but agreed to pay the sum named rather than stand suit.

Mrs. William Stokesberry, of Elk Run township, some time ago petitioned probate court to reduce the year's allowance of her mother, Sarah Cope, from $1,000 to $250. Israel Cope, of Middleton township, died in 1899 and the appraisers of the estate set aside $1,000 for the widow's support during the following years. Mrs. Cope has a life estate in the 86-acre farm and Mrs. Stokesberry says that $250 in addition to the proceeds of the farm are more than sufficient for a year. Judge Boone reserved his decision.

Kate S. Cooke was appointed administrator of the estate of Osbourne R. Cooke, of Salem. Bond for $2,000 was required.

COMING WEDDING

Miss Emma M. Clare And William P. Ormes to Wed on July 16.

Cards are out announcing the wedding of Mr. William P. Ormes and Miss Ella M. Clare, both of whom reside in this city.

The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Blanche Amareaux, No. 3 Fourth street, Rankin, Pa., on the evening of July 16, and a large number of East Liverpool people will be present. The young couple will make their home in this city.

Released From Quarantine.

Mrs. William Fadely, who has been confined to her home in New Cumberland with smallpox for several weeks, was released from quarantine yesterday. She made a trip up town at once, but most of her friends seemed disposed to give her the whole side walk, notwithstanding the fact that the quarantine has been raised.

Given to Vocal Exertions Which Sleepy Residents Don't Appreciate.

Contractor McLaughlin still continues to do a large part of the hauling for the paving on Pennsylvania avenue at night. His teams now begin work at midnight and continue 10 hours.

No trouble is experienced with the horses since this rule has been adopted. A number of residents of the avenue along which the teams pass, however, are greatly annoyed by the unnecessary noise made by some of the teamsters. They seem to become lonesome during the wee small hours and in order to keep up their spirits indulge in vocal exercises that makes sleep impossible for the weary laborer who toils in the heat of the day.

Several of the residents state that they will request Mr. McLaughlin to have his men refrain from singing their favorite songs at this unsavory hour, and in case it then continues they will appeal to the authorities.

The East End Is Orderly.

Since the beginning of the Fourth vacation affairs in the East End have been unusually quiet. But one arrest was made during the vacation and the victim was the only disorderly individual on the streets in that time. An old resident states that he cannot recall a Fourth of July in many years that has passed off without excitement or disorder of any kind as this one did.

East Enders Victorious.

The East End Grays and a picked nine from Klondike played a game on the East End grounds yesterday. The Grays won by a score of 8 to 4. The latter team is playing this afternoon with a team backed by Henry Nelming.

Given a Serenade.

William Chambers and wife returned last evening from their honeymoon trip. The usual crowd of serenaders gathered at the groom's house and made the night hideous for a short time. The groom treated liberally, after which the serenaders departed.

Arranging a Match.

The East End tennis club is arranging for a contest with the Oak Grove players, which will probably be held about August 1. A number of players from this city will visit at the East End courts Thursday evening.

Condition Still Serious.

The condition of Mrs. Hugh Clark still remains unchanged. So far it has been impossible for the physicians to counteract the effect of the electrical shock. Her condition is critical.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

W. A. Orr is confined to his home on First avenue by illness.

Charles Demmerling, of Helena, has returned after a week's visit to friends in Pittsburgh.

John Forbes has commenced the erection of a new six-room house on Virginia avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hays, of Helena, have returned after a short visit to Hookstown, Pa.

Raymond, the 10-year-old son of George Clendenning, of Pennsylvania avenue, is very ill threatened with typhoid fever.

Mrs. J. W. Kennedy, who has been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. J. Day, left today for Sistersville, W. Va., where she will visit her brother, Bruce Wilcox. She was accompanied by her son, Frank. They will again visit at the East End before returning to their home at Coryden, Pa.

NEW PARK

Salem Parties Secure Lease on Land for Picnic Grounds Near Alliance.

Alliance and Sebring are to have a summer resort and amusement park which will be owned and backed by Salem capitalists.

Charles B. Kennerdell, Winfield S. Eckstein and one other gentleman of Salem are said to have purchased 71 acres of land 1 1/4 miles east of Alliance. The tract is beautifully located and most of it is situated on the banks of the Mahoning river. The price paid for the land was about $5,000.

It is said to be the intention of Mr. Kennerdell and the other interested parties to erect a large hotel on the banks of the Mahoning, also a large dancing pavilion, roller coaster, bowling alleys and have many other forms of amusement. Yesterday Mr. Kennerdell obtained a 30-day option on 150 acres of land adjoining the site already purchased. The land is admirably fitted for park purposes, a large portion being covered with woods. If the plans do not fall through the resort will be ready to be opened within six months.

DOWIEISM BLAMED

Woman at Mansfield Died Without Having Received Medical Attention.

Mansfield, O., July 9.—Mrs. Frank Calver, aged 30, died here after a week's illness and three days' unconsciousness, without having received medical attention. She belonged to the Dowie sect, her husband having been one of the local citizens deported a year ago for befriending Dowie elders, who were mobbed here. The cause of the woman's death is as yet unknown and when application for burial permit was made it was refused, pending an inquest by the county coroner, who is investigating the case.

Telegraphic request was made to John Alexander Dowie for prayer, but his petition were unavailing. If, as believed, death was due to typhoid fever the board of health will take vigorous action.

MURDERERS ARRAIGNED

Italians Accused of the Wheeling Junction Tragedy Pleaded Not Guilty.

Wellsburg, July 9.—Francisco Favoli and Giuseppe Favoli, two of the members of the Italian gang alleged to be implicated in the murder of several members of the Eldenour family at Wheeling Junction last Thursday, were secretly taken from the county jail Saturday night and brought before Justice Russell. They were represented by Attorney G. W. McClary, who entered for them a plea of not guilty.

They were then returned to the jail and it was decided to open a hearing on the charges at 9 o'clock this morning. Guetano Favoli, who is also alleged to be implicated in the murders, has not been captured.

Youngstown, July 9.—J. B. Mainsberry, a grocer, received a telephone message that there was an express package at his door and that the owner desired that he should take care of it. The woman at the other end of the line refused to give her name. When he found the package and discovered that it was a hand bank, issued by a local savings bank, he reported to the police.

The bank contained $100 and was found to belong to Laura B. Hoar. She could not be found at her residence and the police are trying to solve the mystery.

FARM LABOR FAMINE

Harvest Hands So Scarce in Mahoning That Women Work in the Fields.

Youngstown, July 9.—The farmers in the neighborhood of Youngstown and other valley manufacturing cities are offering anywhere from $1.50 to $2 a day, with board, lodging and washing, for farm hands. The tempting price offered has not been sufficient to bring helpers, and the farmers are at their wits' end.

Women and girls have been trying to help their fathers and brothers in the harvest fields and during the recent hot spell many of them were overcome with heat.

Owes His Life to Neighbor's Kindness

Mr. D. P. Daugherty, well known throughout Mercer and Sumner counties, W. Va., most likely owes his life to the kindness of a neighbor. He was almost hopelessly afflicted with diarrhoea, was attended by two physicians who gave him little, if any relief, when a neighbor learning of his serious condition, brought him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which cured him in less than 24 hours. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

WELLSVILLE

A BASEMENT BLAZE

Causes Considerable Damage in the Store of Butler & Howe.

The basement of Butler & Howe's dry goods store was discovered in a blaze last evening at 7 o'clock. There was no one there at the time and when Mr. Howe went to get some goods he was astounded to find that a fire of no mean proportions had gained a start. All of the tailor made suits that were hanging on the central rack were ruined. They were quickly carried out into the street by the frightened employees and the blaze was stamped out.

The fire department was not called because the proprietors did not want the other goods to be damaged by water. The retail value of the goods was about $500.

The fire is thought to have been caused by a spark from the carbon in the electric light overhead.

CAUGHT BIG FISH

Wellsville Campers Having Great Sport in Northern Michigan.

Chester Lewis returned yesterday from a trip to Les Cheneaux, Mich. He tells of all kinds of big fish and big times. He says James Baum and Dr. Fraser are having a pleasant race to catch the biggest fish. Baum is ahead by 1 1/4 pounds. He caught one fish weighing 13 1/4 pounds. Lewis says the fish looked like a small-sized boat when it was being drawn out of the water. Dr. Fraser has only been able to catch a twelve pounder so far.

Three Arrests.

A man who gave his name as Homer Smith, a brakeman on the road, was found drunk in company with Molly Beck last night in John Dennis' cellar by Officers Madden and Thorne. They were locked up. Murvin Lewis, for having a private circus on Main street, was run in last evening and released this morning on the order of his boss. He will be tried when Mayor Dennis returns from the Democratic convention.

Before the Pennsylvania Railroad used Walker's Soap, newly varnished cars were found to be shabby and need re-varnishing. The cause was a mystery till the company's chemist investigated and found it was the alkali in common soaps that was destroying property. A standard of soap purity was then set up, and now the cars are washed with

The Klondikers Suffered Defeat at the Hands of the West End Rovers.

The Klondike Indians went down to an ignominious defeat before the superior tactics of the West End Rovers at the West End park yesterday afternoon. Although the Indians had disregarded their agreement and run in a number of "ringers" from the East End Grays, they were no match for their sturdy opponents, upon whom their strongest efforts were wasted without avail.

The Indians never stood a ghost of a show, and although they made an heroic attempt to unbalance the equilibrium of the Rovers, the latter team kept their nerve admirably, putting up an almost errorless game that resulted in a score of 11 to 2 in their favor.

BIG IMPROVEMENT

Made By Chief Thompson in And About the City Jail.

Chief Thompson busied himself yesterday afternoon making some needed repairs in and about the city jail. One noticeable improvement is the linoleum which covers the floor of the hallway leading from the mayor's office into the jail and also in the small room adjoining the women's department.

The chief refused to listen to suggestions from either Mayor Davidson or Clerk Hanley, but went ahead and did the work according to the dictations of his own master mind. So well was it done that not only has he been praised from almost every source, but the improvement is so great that Sanitary Officer Burgess has offered to plead guilty to a charge of "consult and botany" in order to be locked up.

OFFICER OF TRUST SO SAID.

Statement to That Effect Issued From the Office of J. Pierpont Morgan, in New York, After He Had Left the Place.

New York, July 9.—After J. Pierpont Morgan's first business day in Wall street since his return it was officially stated that the strike of steel workers had not been settled, but that it was hoped an amicable arrangement would be reached on Wednesday.

Mr. Morgan conducted negotiations with the Amalgamated association through a representative in Pittsburgh. Several long telegrams passed between them. One of the officers of the steel trust who kept in touch with Mr. Morgan throughout the day said late yesterday afternoon:

"In view of the many conflicting statements made during the day it might be well to state that the differences between certain of the constituent companies of the United States Steel corporation and the Amalgamated association have not yet been settled. There is reason to believe, however, that a settlement will be reached by Wednesday."

TEN SUNDAY LAW SUITS.

Pittsburg, July 9.—Ten alleged violators of the blue laws were given hearings before Alderman S. J. Toole yesterday afternoon. The cases were all for violation of Sunday, June 30, and the accused were obliged to pay the costs of prosecution, the fines of $25 being remitted in each case.

Four informations for violation of the Sunday laws were made yesterday before Alderman W. A. Means by Police Inspector Henry Whitehouse.

Cambria's Plant Will Go to the New

Philadelphia, July 9.—The stockholders of the Cambria Steel company decided by a unanimous vote to sell their property and assets to the recently formed Conemaugh Steel company. There were 233,894 shares voted, and Vice President J. Lowber Welsh said after the meeting that it was unusual in a deal of such magnitude that the vote should be unanimous.

He further stated that the result of the meeting assured the success of the merger of Pennsylvania steel companies outside the United States Steel corporation, although there will be another meeting on Aug. 15 to ratify the action of the meeting.

STOWE RESIGNS;

SALARY INSUFFICIENT.

Washington, July 9.—Consul General James G. Stowe, stationed at Cape Town, has resigned. Colonel Stowe set forth his reasons for quitting in a long letter to Third Assistant Secretary of State Crider. Colonel Stowe finds that $3,000 a year, with war prices on everything in South Africa, is not enough to support himself and his family, which, on account of the high prices of living, he has left in Kansas City. The consul general says that prices at Cape Town, even in normal times, are much higher than in the United States. Since the beginning of the war they have gone so high that it is longer impossible for him to remain at his post.

CONSTITUTION BEAT

THE OTHER YACHTS.

Newport, R. I., July 9.—If the victory of the Constitution over the Columbia and the Independence in the first of the three-cornered races on Saturday was significant and definite, her winning Monday may well be characterized as overwhelming and the defeat of the Independence as positive and almost hopeless. The new Herreshoff boat beat the Columbia by nearly half an hour over the 30-mile course, while the record against the Independence was over an hour. She came near traveling around the triangle while the Crowninshield creation was covering two legs of it.

The McKinleys Rested.

Canton, O., July 9.—President and Mrs. McKinley closely observed their "resting program" Monday. The weather was cool, but there was too much humidity for Mrs. McKinley to venture out on a morning drive, although she continues to gradually regain strength. President McKinley and Secretary Cortelyou devoted some time to official work during the morning, clearing up business they brought from Washington and disposing of matters forwarded by mail.

FAMOUS DISPATCH TO DEWEY.

Crowninshield Said He Wrote It.
President and Griggs Changed It
a Little—Long's Statement.

Washington, July 9.—Rear Admiral A. S. Crowninshield, chief of the bureau of navigation, issued a formal statement to the effect that he is the author of the famous dispatch to Admiral Dewey, ordering him to proceed from Hong Kong to Manila and there capture or destroy the Spanish fleet. Admiral Crowninshield states that he wrote the dispatch in the white house and submitted it to both Attorney General Griggs and the president, and that the only change made in the dispatch as he wrote it was the addition of either the word "capture" or the word "destroy."

The dispatch, according to Admiral Crowninshield, then was handed to Lieutenant Whittlesley, who took it to Secretary Long, and after the latter had signed it sent it to Admiral Dewey.

In conclusion Admiral Crowninshield says that whatever credit comes from having given the order belongs to the president and Secretary Long.

Secretary Long said upon this subject:

"My recollection is entirely distinct. Immediately upon declaration of war I had conferred with the president about an order to Dewey to attack the Spanish fleet at Manila."

"On Sunday morning, April 24, I went to the white house, sat with the president on a sofa in the corridor, and earnestly advised the sending of such an order. But for Admiral Crowninshield's statement, I should have said unhesitatingly that I had with me the dispatch which had been prepared in his bureau of navigation, and that, the president approving, I returned to the navy department and sent it in to the bureau of navigation to be put in cipher."

"I then went out to drive. As I drove out between 11 and 12 o'clock, I remember passing Admiral Crowninshield. As to what transpired later at the white house, at the meeting which he describes, I, of course, have no knowledge."

"It seems to me probable that the president, after his interview with me, sent for some of the cabinet and Admiral Crowninshield, and took up the dispatch which, according to my recollection, had already been prepared, and gave it final consideration. Probably also there had come in Dewey's dispatch of the day before, advising us that he had been ordered to get away from Hong Kong."

CROWDS OF SOONERS.

Lands Despite President's Proclamation.

El Reno, O. T., July 9.—Judge Kirkpatrick, special allotting agent of the Kiowa-Comanche Indian reservation, said that Caddo county was full of "sooners," and that trouble is likely to occur, notwithstanding the county is to be opened by lottery and not by run. Two troops of cavalry, one each from Ft. Reno and Ft. Sill, have been ordered to these posts, and are expected to arrive Wednesday.

Lew Hornbeck has a small following here who declare they intend to locate now, regardless of the president's proclamation, naming certain days upon which the land is to be allotted by drawing. Already some of Hornbeck's followers have entered the forbidden country.

Jersey City, N. J., July 9.—Thomas S. Barker, who was convicted of assault with intent to kill the Rev. John Keller at Arlington, Feb. 3, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment, left the city for the state prison at Trenton, where he began to serve his term.

A Philippine Official Accused.

Manila, July 9.—The United States Philippine commission has ordered H. Phelps Whitmar, the governor of Benguet province, to come to Manila and submit to an investigation, owing to the allegation that he has been using his position to his personal advantage, in acquiring lands and mining rights from the natives. He is charged with indiscretion and violation of his instructions. Colonel Duval, of the Forty-eighth regiment, and Dr. Keifer, the regimental surgeon, complained of Governor Whitmar.

Argued For New Trial.

Pittsburg, July 9.—The general argument list for June was taken up in criminal court yesterday by Judges Shafer and Rodgers. Attorney John D. Watson argued for five minutes in behalf of Edward Biddle for a new trial. District Attorney John C. Haymaker opposed it. It was announced that no new testimony will be taken in Walter Dorman's case. Attorney William A. Blakely will submit a brief, after which the court will render its decision.

The suicide at Akron of James Coyle, aged 30 years, last Friday evening, only two weeks after the suicide of his intimate friend, Robert Baird, has given rise to a report that other violent deaths may be expected in the clique of young men associated with these two in a suicide club.

House Work

Seems easy to a man, but there is a great deal of lifting and reaching to do; a great many trips up and down stairs to make in the course of day's house work. It's hard where a woman is well. For a woman suffering with some form of "female trouble" it is daily torment.

There are thousands of such women struggling along, day by day, in increasing misery. There are other thousands who have found a complete cure of their disease in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stops debilitating drains, cures irregularity, heals inflammation and ulceration, nourishes the nerves, and gives vitality and vigor. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. It contains no opium, cocaine nor other narcotic.

"For a number of months I suffered with female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McGowan, of 1212 Bank St., Washington, D. C. "I tried various remedies, but none seemed to do me any permanent good. The doctors said it was the worst case of internal trouble they ever had. I decided to write to you for help. I received a very encouraging reply, and commenced treatment at once. I had not used your 'Favorite Prescription' a week before I began to feel better, and, as I continued, my health gradually improved. It is improving every day."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for a book in paper covers, or 31 stamps in cloth, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A MIGHTY INFLUENCE.

The annual convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor now being held in Cincinnati calls attention to the wonderful growth of this organization and its far-reaching influence. Ten years ago the Christian Endeavor Society, then comparatively new, had reached a membership of 1,000,000. Even that growth, springing from the example set by a pastor in the small city of Portland, Me., in interesting the young people of his congregation to take an active part in church work, was considered phenomenal. Now the 1,000,000 has increased to 4,000,000 and every land beneath the sun has societies or representatives of this great and vigilant body of Christian workers. Its influence is incalculable. Not denominational lines, but the spirit of unity and charity bind its members together. The world is full of work for such an organization, and we trust that its labors may be even more useful in the future than they have been in the past.

THE STATE OF OKLAHOMA.

Oklahoma is already clamoring for admission into the sisterhood of states and will soon clamor more loudly. Arrangements are now completed for the opening of the great Indian reservations in Oklahoma and the Indian territory. The allotment of these lands will probably add 100,000 inhabitants to the population of the two territories. This will bring the population of the two territories above 1,000,000, and, if they are consolidated as is now proposed, will make a state of large and respectable proportions. No state ever entered the union with a population anything like it.

Oklahoma has some of the finest soil on the continent and its white inhabitants are far above the average pioneers in enterprise and intelligence. The Indian will fare better under the new arrangement than when he nominally held the land and swindlers and squaw men reaped the profits. The state of Oklahoma, the forty-sixth state of the union, will probably be established ere another year, and it will be a state, in climate, soil, resources and men, that its people and the people of the whole country are likely to have reason to be proud of.

A HOT WEATHER NEED.

Dog days are fast approaching, yet the dog law, which Mayor Davidson has long and strenuously advocated, has not been enacted by the city solons. It may seem a trivial matter to the average citizen, but if he should chance to collide with a collarless and ownerless dog afflicted with rabies he would change his mind very suddenly. Already, during the present summer, a number of dogs in the city have gone mad, or are supposed to have done so. Scarcely a week passes that some person is not bitten by some worthless cur that should never have been suffered to remain at large. Now being rent by dogs' teeth, whether the animal has hydrophobia or not, is a most unpleasant experience. It is all the more aggravating because it is entirely unnecessary. The danger in it is genuinely and alarmingly real, and is one to which neither children nor grown people should be subjected. What Mayor Davidson wants and what the city needs—judging from the number of dogs running at large—is an ordinance compelling the owners of canine pets to look after them, to muzzle them in hot weather, and to compel them to wear a collar bearing the owner's name, so that if the dog becomes a nuisance the responsibility may be fixed. Dogs whom nobody owns should be slaughtered on sight.

There is much legislation which engages the attention of the city council that is less important than the dog question. The city fathers can serve the public a good turn by taking the matter up. If they don't know what is needed, the mayor can tell them in short order.

A Columbus boy has successfully driven an automobile from Ohio's capital to Columbus. It is safe to say he did not pass over Columbiana county roads, or it would have been all up with his machine.

And now they tell us that the Ohio Democrats are going to omit free silver from their platform. There's no longer any votes in that issue.

The Iron City will soon have put iron bands around the heads of its base ball enthusiasts or there will be an alarming explosion.

Jom Johnson's fads are likely to suffer sad neglect at the hands of the Democratic convention. Likewise William J. Bryan's.

East Liverpool Baptists Adopt a Constitution, Pay Debts And Elect Officers.

The Baptist church of this city was reorganized last Sunday evening. The reorganization included adopting articles of faith, a constitution and by-laws and the election of officers. The election resulted as follows: Deacons, D. Wells, T. C. Neal and M. C. Wright; clerk, Charles Brown; treasurer, J. A. Powell; trustees, A. Frazer (J. A. Powell and J. Williams; superintendent of Sunday School, W. H. Beynon. The church raised sufficient money to cancel all its debts.

There are great preparations going on for the entertainment of the visiting ministers and delegates for the recognition council which will convene at the U. P. church next Thursday. There will be two sessions, one at 3 and the other at 8 p. m.

The afternoon session will be a formal examination of the condition of the church and its articles of faith.

The evening session will be more of a public character and addresses will be made by visiting ministers and local pastors. A special feature will be the music. The well known chorists, Miss McLane, Profs. Laughlin and Phillips, will unite their respective choirs into a grand chorus, which will render appropriate music. In addition there will be selections by a male choir directed by Prof. Phillips and also selection by well known soloists.

The courtesy of the U. P. church and its pastor, Dr. Taggart, who have generously given the use of their church to the Baptists, is highly appreciated by the latter.

LAND OPTIONED

Large Tracts Between Island Creek And Yellow Creek Taken Up for the Wabash.

Steubenville, July 9.—Russell Jeffrey, of Woodrow, Pa., who for several days has been taking options on coal in the vicinity of Island Creek, has returned home. Mr. Jeffrey has secured options on over 4,000 acres in the tract of country situated between Island Creek and Yellow Creek and expects to return at an early date to secure several thousand more. These are taken, supposedly, in the interest of the Wabash railroad, and a decided move toward developing and bringing into publicity the many natural advantages of this rich and beautiful farming country.

Increased values of land and many other advantages hitherto undreamed of, are predicted for the residents of this vicinity.

WORKING TOGETHER

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company Reported Backing Projected Trolley Lines.

Wheeling, July 9.—It has developed that the Pennsylvania Railroad company is backing trolley lines about this city. Martin's Ferry council refused to give the new Ohio Rapid Transit company a franchise unless lines were built to Wheeling, and the company produced a contract with the Wheeling Terminal Railroad company, owned by the Pennsylvania company, giving the exclusive use of the bridge between this city and Martin's Ferry, and also a contract between the transit company and the bankers acting in the name of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, agreeing to build the line within 10 months of securing certain franchises.

Willoughby, O., July 9.—The lake beach in this vicinity has been literally covered for several miles with the dead bodies of lake lizards. Some epidemic disease seems to have killed them by the thousands.

Though known to exist in great numbers in the lake, they are rarely seen, except when taken on night lines, from which they sometimes strip the bait.

They are repulsive looking creatures, with slimy, scaleless bodies, hideous looking heads and four legs. They are sluggish and perfectly harmless. Some of the farmers near the beach have gathered them up for fertilizer.

SHOT AND KILLED

Young Man at Barberton Killed While Trying to Enter Another's Home.

Akron, O., July 9.—Charles Waltz, aged 22, was shot and killed by Photographer John W. Edwards, at Barberton, late at night as he was attempting to enter the house. Waltz and two companions had trouble with some one at the White Onion, a resort west of the city. They supposed Edwards was this man and attempted to enter his home, declaring they would "fix" him. Edwards fired just as the window was smashed in and the bullet lodged in Waltz's heart.

Waltz was a quiet, orderly fellow, a clerk for the Stirling Boiler company. He was not the aggressor in the trouble. Edwards, not knowing his shot had taken effect, went to bed. A policeman found Waltz's body on his porch. No arrests have been made.

Put in Time Holding Meetings at the Cincinnati Convention.

Among Other Features Were Evangelistic Services Held Through Tenement and Manufacturing Sections—Rev. G. C. Morgan Talked.

Cincinnati, July 9.—Another beautiful day greeted the thousands of Christian Endeavorers who are assembled here in their twentieth annual convention. The sudden change in the weather Sunday brought several thousand more visitors to the city, and the clerks were kept busy until late last night registering the new arrivals.

After the business sessions of Saturday and the evangelist and other mass meetings of Sunday, the regular programs of the twentieth international convention of the Christian Endeavor were begun Monday. Several of the largest churches in the central part of the city were used, in addition to the Odeon hall and the three large auditoriums heretofore used. Two quarter hour meetings were held from 8 to 9 a. m., conducted by Floyd W. Tompkins, of Philadelphia, and Cornelius Woolfkin, of Brooklyn.

G. Campbell Morgan, of Baltimore, conducted a meeting on Bible teaching, and J. E. Carson, of Brooklyn, one on "The Holy Spirit." Miss Margaret Koch, of Waterville, Me., conducted a conference on "Bodily and Vocal Development."

President Clark and Others Spoke. At Auditorium Endeavor, President Clark, presiding, and H. C. Lincoln, of Philadelphia, as director of music, "The Twentieth Century Home" was the topic, with addresses by Clarence J. Harris, Atlanta; Edwin Forrest Haddenbeck, Albany; Ira Landrith, Nashville; J. E. Pounds, Cleveland; W. G. Marsh, Adelaide, Australia, and Robert Johnson, London, Ont.

At the First English Lutheran church, Secretary Willis Baer presiding and Percy S. Foster as musical director, there were many addresses on the school of methods for the Junior Endeavor by Mrs. Frances E. Clark, Boston; Miss Frances Le Monnier, Chicago; A. J. Turkle, Allegheny, Pa.; Miss Clara L. Boyer, Dayton, O.; Miss Kate H. Haus, of St. Louis; Mrs. M. L. Hageman, Muncie, Ind.; Field Secretary C. E. Eberman, Boston; Miss Elizabeth M. Olney, Providence; Jenks E. Robinson, Philadelphia; Treasurer William Shaw, Boston; George W. Pollock, Buchanan, W. Va.; and George B. Graft, Boston.

At Odeon hall, the new field secretary, Clarence E. Eberman, presiding, and addresses were made by local, district and state union officials.

The noonday evangelistic services were conducted by Dr. S. L. Work. At the Central Christian church Rev. G. Campbell Morgan delivered during the morning an extemporaneous address on prayer and its foundation, from a technical standpoint, in the Scriptures. A large crowd heard the address.

At noon evangelistic services were held through the tenement and manufacturing districts of the city. The work was conducted by volunteers.

At Auditorium Endeavor, during the morning, Rev. Tunis Hamlin, of Washington, D. C., presided. He had been asked to assume the chair by President Clark. A large audience was present. Rev. Ira Landrith, of Nashville, spoke on the home, while H. E. Pounds, of Cleveland, spoke of the best books and how to read them properly.

Junior Endeavorers met at the First English Lutheran church to hear Treasurer William Shaw, of Boston.

The big meeting of the afternoon was held in Auditorium Endeavor, where George B. Graft, of Boston, presided, with Percy S. Foster, of Washington, D. C., as musical director. Devotional exercises were led by Rev. John Offer Custis, of Barclay, Md. H. C. Lee Gault, of Philadelphia, spoke on "A Century More of Christian Endeavor Pledges," and George B. Shaw, of Aberdeen, Wash., told of affairs that kept thousands moving.

New Ideas For Next Century.

Henry H. Marcuse, of Chicago, the great speaker, evolved some "New Century" ideas for the next century, in an open parliamentary session, in which many suggestions were received from those in the audience. J. M. Warren, of Santa Barbara, Cal., turned the topic of "What Are the Elements of a Strong Society?" into a similar open discussion. Rev. W. L. Farby, of Kirksville, Mo., in his lecture on "Utilizing the Honorary Membership," recommended that young members be elected to fill offices and that the old ones be relegated to a rear but yet active seat. Dr. Ernest Brown, of Cleveland, presented a paper on "Lookout Committees that I Cooked." On them, he said, the life of the organization depends. William H. Moody, of Northfield, Mass., son of the evangelist Dwight W. Moody, spoke on "Your Testimony in the Meeting." Dr. W. S. Shaw, of Wapeton, N. D., made a humorous address about "The Spectators that Lead."

The fair sex predominated in Auditorium Williston at the afternoon meeting. Prof. James Lewis Howe, of Lexington, Va., having it in charge, H. H. Jacobs, of Brooklyn, led the chorus and music. The meeting was called "The Twentieth Century Christian Endeavor Society," and was largely devoted to an opening parliamentary session. President Francis Clark, of Boston, gave some of his ideas on "Advanced Steps for the New Year." "The Training of Our Secretaries" was treated by Miss Margaret Cook, of Water Hill, Me. W. H. Ball, of Philadelphia, conducted the open parliament, and E. G. Routashin, of Dayton, O., told "What Can be Done With Good Literature." Alexander E. Matheson, of Janesville, Wis., explained "Social Committees that Are Social," and "The Money Side of It" was discussed by John Henry Stauff, of Pittsburgh. Rev. J. Edward Kirby, of Charleston, S. C., followed. "The Way to Make Christian Endeavorers" was discussed by Rev. R. V. Hunter, of Indianapolis, in a paper on "How We May Manufacture Christian Endeavor Citizens." Rev. William Fenhalegon, of Decatur, Ill., spoke on "Graduating Into the Twentieth Century Church," and the meeting was closed with a "Forward Look Into Christian Endeavor," by Richard W. Lewis, of Denver.

The local district and state union officers met during the day and discussed business, as also did the ministers, who held an executive session in Auditorium Endeavor late in the day.

The prison workers conferred at the Central Presbyterian church, and between 5 and 5:30 p. m. President Clark received all Endeavorers who have been members for 10 years and longer. The reception took place in the Odeon, adjoining the Music hall auditoriums, and hundreds took the opportunity to meet Mr. Clark.

COUNT BONI'S BROTHER MARRIED DAUGHTER OF CUBAN.

Paris, July 9.—Stanislaus de Castellane, a brother of Count Boni, was married to the daughter of Senor Bride of Stanislaus De Castellane. Terry, the Cuban millionaire, at the Church of Saint Honore, in the presence of members of Parisian society and the American colony.

TRAIN SIDE SWIPED.

A Number of Persons Received Injuries at Columbus.

Columbus, O., July 9.—Panhandle passenger train No. 19, known as the New York express, was "side wiped" by a switch engine just outside the Union station here Monday afternoon. Twenty-five people were injured, seven of them being so badly hurt that they were unable to proceed on their way west with the train.

The following were the most seriously injured:

J. W. Chapin, Indianapolis, side crushed.

Allen Chavoue, Marion, O., badly bruised about head.

Cora Jennings, Orrville, O., right arm sprained.

Mrs. Flynn, Ellwood, Ind., probably fatally injured.

Leon Coad, Ellwood, Ind., head badly bruised and bad scalp wound.

Samuel Fulzan, badly bruised and cut by broken glass.

The passenger train was approaching the station at a rapid speed, when the switch engine with a cut of cars dashed out from a siding, striking the third coach of the passenger. The car and the one immediately following were demolished. Both trains were stopped at once and aid was summoned. The injured were removed to the Union station, where they were made as comfortable as possible.

Soon as the wreckage could be dumped from the track new cars were substituted and the train proceeded on its way west.

Woman, Who Masqueraded as Man, Accused of Forgeries.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 9.—The trial of Ellis Glenn, the woman who is charged with committing forgery while in the guise of a man, was commenced yesterday afternoon. Little trouble was experienced in securing a jury and the opening statements were made by the opposition counsel. This morning the taking of evidence was to begin. Miss Glenn appeared in court heavily veiled until she was requested to remove the veil.

The opening statements of counsel for the defense promised to prove that E. B. Glenn, who is accused of forgery, was a man, while Ellis Glenn, who is on trial, is a woman. The state promises to prove the two identical. Much evidence of a sensational character is promised. Glenn is charged with raising a deed of trust for $100 to $1,400 and exchanging it for a $1,200 piece of land and $200 cash.

THE BLEEDING CURE.

A RELIC OF THE MEDICAL METHODS OF A CENTURY AGO.

The Barbarous Practice of "Cupping" Suffering Humanity Still Has Its Adherents—The Operation a Somewhat Delicate One.

One hundred years ago the sovereign balm for every ill, from fainting to fever, was bleeding. The wonder is that a human race was left to admit the folly of the practice. It was the correct method of the day, recommended and employed by the best physicians of the time. The surgeon who attended George Washington in his last illness first set about bleeding his august patient. The story is that he took several cups of blood from the vigorous arm of Washington and then diagnosed the case. Washington died. Some say that if he had not been bled he probably would have lived.

The cry comes, But that was a century ago! In sharp contrast stands the wonderful advances made by modern surgery. Thankfully it may be said that such is the truth. But sometimes customs die hard, and today the doctrine of "cupping" has devotees as faithful as those who gave up their life sustaining fluid in Washington's time. This is a startling statement. The writer would have been skeptical if he had not learned its truth himself.

In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries this gruesome form of treatment was the work of the barber. That guild has maintained its prerogative into the twentieth century. In a certain little side street in New York, crushed between two towering brick buildings, stands a timid story and a half frame house. The suggestive striped pole which emblazons the art of the dweller within juts over the walk. In the window hangs a sign bearing the word "Cupping." If today were set back to 1700, the pole alone would tell the story. Times, they say, have changed, and so the sign.

The barber is a German. He was much surprised at the question asked. Everybody knew that cupping was a necessity, especially in the spring, he said. Sometimes, he added, he was so busy that little time remained for his shaving and hair cutting of customers.

"Ach, yes," said the barber, "it keeps me a busy man. How strange you say that you thought it no longer was practiced. People come here morning, noon and night every day, but mostly do they come here in the spring and fall. It is then that the blood needs drawing off. If you have a pain in your head, you come to me. I take my little cup, burn the air in it out, push down my little knives just behind your ear on the neck, and when the cup is full I take it away. If your headache is not better yet, I take another cup, so be it that the bleeding stop not, upon the other side. Maybe your back pains; I cut you a little on the side. Your arm pains; I draw the blood from your wrist."

The barber bared his arm. The skin was crossed with tiny, pale nicks, like those one sees on the wrist of a morphine victim.

"Twelve is the number of cups I draw at one sitting," the barber said. "It is a bad pain that will not be gone then. If you come again the next day with the pain, I draw off more until the ache has disappeared completely."

The cups look like sherry glasses with the stems removed. The knife, or lancet, is arranged like a name stamp. Pressure on a spring plunger drives the little blades, which are arranged in pairs or triplets, into the skin. It is here that the skill of the operator comes into play. When the incisions are made in the neck too violent, a tap on the plunger might mean the severing or wounding of an artery. Pressure too light would not let the blood flow fast enough. The barber must have a trained touch.

Upon the condition of the cup much depends. The air is exhausted by means of a tiny alcohol flame. This makes a vacuum. The cup is pressed on lightly, but firmly. The blood rushes under the skin beneath its rim; then, like a flash, the little knives are pushed down, and the bleeding begins. The operator never takes more than 12 cups at one sitting. That would mean perhaps a half pint of blood.

This system of bleeding for human ailments harks back to the earliest times. All through the middle ages it was the healing balm for the sufferings of mankind. The ancients firmly believed that the loss of blood in this manner drew from their systems the "noxious humors" which afflicted them. The advent of the modern school of medicine and surgery did away with the process as a universal therapeutic measure. It was not until the nineteenth century was nearly half completed, however, that physicians abandoned it as a practice.—New York Tribune.

A Trait of the Sex.

A traveling man who had been absent on a long trip just returned, and his 4-year-old daughter would not at first come near him. Every time he approached her she ran away. The father finally sat down on the floor and, picking up some toy dishes, asked his daughter to come and play party with him.

This had the desired effect, and the child came and played with her parent, who asked her why she didn't come to him before.

"Oh, papa," replied the youngster, "I'm so shy."—Pittsburg Press.

Sweeping.

A young man who had just entered the office of Jeremiah Mason, the great New Hampshire legal luminary, to study law asked him where he should begin. Mason, pointing to the books on the library shelves, answered laconically, "Anywhere."

ENGLISH SPARROWS.

Dates at Which These Birds Were Imported Into This Country.

I have been asked several times lately at what date the common English sparrows were imported into the United States and by whom.

It seems that the first attempt was made in 1858 by a private citizen of Portland, Me. In the fall of that year he liberated six sparrows, and they immediately made themselves at home in his garden and outbuildings. For a few years these birds and their descendants were seen in and about the town in small squads. These birds multiplied until in the winter of 1871 a flock of them appeared in every nearby town, thus showing their tendency to spread over adjoining territory.

About 1860 12 birds were imported and liberated near Madison square, New York city, and this was repeated for several seasons.

In 1864 the commissioners of New York liberated 14 birds in Central park. About this time numerous persons returning from abroad brought a few birds home and set them at liberty in and about Jersey City.

The craze for importing these birds spread, and in 1868 the city government of Boston imported a great number. But the birds had not been carefully handled, and they did not thrive, and others were brought over. The birds which survived from these various importations were carefully fed and looked after by the city government.

In 1869 a thousand were imported and liberated in the city of Philadelphia, and soon the birds spread over all adjacent territory.

About this time the Smithsonian institution became interested in bringing these birds to this country, so they imported 300, but most of them died. In 1871 the same institution brought over another lot, and they were successfully cared for.

From this it is seen that the birds have started from a number of points and were not one or two importations to New York, as is usually supposed.—Washington Post.

STOVES.

Owing to the mildness of the climate in Portugal heating stoves are rarely used in that country.

Heating and cooking stoves are both used by the upper classes in Greece, but the lower classes still live without using either.

Very few heating and cooking stoves are used in Paraguay. All the houses have brick stoves built in them, so that iron stoves have little or no sale.

Stoves made of tiling are in general use in Austria. They are said to be superior to iron stoves on account of the great economy of fuel possible by their use.

There is in the Mediterranean countries a widespread prejudice against all artificial heat, and consequently not more than one house in six is ever heated during the winter time.

Iron cooking stoves are almost an unknown luxury among the people of South America and the West Indies. They still cook in open fireplaces and by other primitive methods.

The cooking stove, as it is known in the United States, does very little service in France. A few are in use in the country, but in most farmhouses the cooking is done in a large open fireplace. In the cities a furnace is built in the small kitchen.

Paying the Landlord.

The proprietor of one of the new apartment houses near Fifth avenue has paid a rather heavy penalty for having a cartoonist as one of his tenants. The artist wanted some changes made in the decoration of his apartment, and the proprietor declined to make them. The proprietor's features are pronounced, and he wears long, flowing side whiskers. His face, distorted to suit the cartoonist's fancy, has appeared nearly every week in one of the comic papers. Sometimes the proprietor figures as the villain and again as the countryman who is bunked every week in the pages of this publication. The cartoonist lets the whiskers grow from week to week; then, just as his victim imagines that they will grow so long that his friend will not recognize him, the artist trims the whiskers down again. The proprietor of the apartment house has concluded that the only way in which he can get even with the cartoonist is to put in a bill for services as model.—New York Sun.

Disheartening.

Even the clergyman, noble and inspiring as his vocation is, has now and then his bad moments.

"Oh, sir," said a poor woman to a Scotch minister, who was by no means a popular preacher, "well do I like the day when you give us the sermon."

"Indeed!" said the minister, flushing with pleasure. "I wish there were more like you, my good woman. It is seldom I hear such words from any one."

"Maybe their hearing's stronger than mine, sir," said the woman promptly, "but when you preach I can always get a good seat."—Youth's Companion.

A Clock Run by Balls.

A clock owned in England is run by balls which fall into pockets on the right side of a wheel, which revolves and operates the works. The balls drop into a drawer when the wheel revolves far enough. The clock is "wound up" by placing the balls in a receptacle on top of the clock.—Jewelers' Circular Weekly.

The first anthracite coal known to be such was discovered at Mauch Chunk, Pa., in 1791. The Lehigh Coal Mining company began business in the same year, making a commodity of the recent discovery.

AN IDEAL FOOD.

Nutritious Value of Woandou, Cultivated by Negroes in Africa.

In a communication to the state department at Washington Richard Guenther, consul general at Frankfurt, Germany, says:

"German papers speak of an annual plant growing in tropical Africa, belonging to the leguminous class, which is largely cultivated by the negroes as a food article. It has also been introduced to some extent in southern Asia and in Brazil. It is called woandou by the African negroes. The botanical name is Glycine subterranea.

"The French expert chemist of ailments has recently analyzed the fruit of the woandou with reference to its chemical composition and its value as food. The fruit, like the peanut, matures under ground. The eatable kernel has the shape of an egg and is dark and red, with black stripes and a white hilum, like most beans. It furnishes a very white flour, whose flavor after cooking much resembles that of chestnuts. The chemical composition is 58 per cent of starchy substance, 19 per cent nitrogenous, 10 per cent water, 6 per cent oil, 4 per cent cellulose substance and 3 per cent ashes. It will be seen that two pounds of these beans would supply the daily requirements of the human system.

"M. Ballard, who has had wide experience in the chemistry of nutriment, calls this fruit the first one found by him in a natural state which shows all the chemical properties of a perfect nutriment."

Confront Delegates at the Ohio Democratic Convention

ONE JOHNSON; ONE McLEAN.

Columbus, O., July 9.—The Democratic state convention is expected to do all of its preliminary work today. It was understood that Hon. Charles W. Baker, who was presiding officer at the last Democratic Ohio convention, will be the permanent chairman. He is a close friend of McLean and chairman of the Hamilton county delegation.

Johnson represents what is called the "radical reform" element among platform makers and McLean represents the conservative element. The indications yesterday were that the conservative element would control the committee on resolutions and adopt what is known as the Cincinnati platform, rather than the Cleveland platform. The platforms are so designated because it is known that two platforms have already been constructed, one in Cincinnati and the other in Cleveland, and drafts of the one was brought here yesterday by Temporary Chairman Salem and others from Cleveland, and of the other by Judson Harmon, Harlan Cleveland and others from Cincinnati. The former radically changes the system of taxation and puts the burden of taxation on the corporations, especially on railways, and on this issue is the principal contention before the convention. In view of the absence of Mayor Johnson it is thought that there will not be much contest over the platform, and there will be no contests for nominations except for minor places on the state ticket, as all concede that Colonel James Kilbourne, of Columbus, will be nominated for governor and that a conference of his friends today will select the man for lieutenant governor, and that "no slate" for other places will be considered, so that the free-for-all fight for judge and clerk of the supreme court, attorney general, state treasurer and member of the board of public works may protract the convention to a late hour on Wednesday evening.

In anticipation of contests over the platform and the nomination for governor, as well as over everything else, the state committee had named 300 assistant sergeant-at-arms, but with the conservatives or the McLean men in full control, and the "reformers," without their leaders, Mayor Johnson and Colonel Kilbourne, with votes to spare for the nomination for governor, the proceedings will likely be so harmonious that these sergeant-at-arms will have nothing to do, except to wear their badges. Neither Temporary Chairman Salem nor the permanent chairman may make any unusual utterance, and the only differences over the platform is in the verbiage of the plank for a revision of the taxation laws. The Johnson men want to name the railways, while the McLean men want this phrasedology in general terms. It is conceded that there will be no reference to municipal ownership or to the Kansas City platform. The platform as drafted will say that the money question is settled, and will demand reformations on new issues, notably local and state taxation, home rule in municipalities, including municipal ownership, and opposition to all trusts.

Val Fitzpatrick, of Cleveland, vice president of the Railway Trainmen, came here from his work in New York to urge the nomination of Frank S. Monnett for attorney general. Monnett was attorney general from 1896 to 1900, as a Republican. He supported Bryan last year on the anti-trust issue, and is now in full accord with "the proposed new departure" of Mayor Johnson, who has written letters favoring Monnett. The McLean men are opposing Monnett openly and vigorously.

Former State Senator D. N. Zalsgaber, by letter, yesterday withdrew as a candidate for supreme judge. The candidates and most of the delegates were here last night.

After the arrival of J. L. Zimmerman and his friends from Springfield yesterday there were repeated conferences to induce Zimmerman to accept second place, but he declined, and insisted that his name would be presented for governor. He said: "A young man like myself can afford to be defeated for governor, but I cannot afford to be buried in the lieutenant governorship."

Bellefonte, Pa., July 9.—Center county soldiers who served in the Philippines the past two years were given a rousing reception on their arrival here last evening. There was a parade, fireworks, public meeting, speechmaking, etc.

Ended Life With a Bullet.

Pittsburg, July 9.—Joseph Link, a saloonkeeper, at 900 Chestnut street, Allegheny, shot and killed himself at the Fulton farm, Reserve township. It is said that he had been despondent on account of ill health.

New York, July 9.—The episode of the Seventh National bank failure and of the bank failures in Buffalo have become sufficiently clear to indicate that they are not of prime importance in the immediate losses involved or in the immediate collateral effects in the stock market, but as a possible symptom of general conditions they have received serious attention. The accumulation of doubtful securities has always proved a consequence of a period of industrial expansion, business prosperity and the general credit which is thereby caused. The Seventh national bank episode has undoubtedly induced a general overhauling of collateral by the banks of Wall street district. Not a little liquidation has been immediately induced as a result.

In the stock market there have been large speculative holdings which were withheld from sale only by reason of the support which has been accorded to prices by large syndicates and moneyed interests. The indications were that a considerable part of this support was withdrawn Monday and large holdings were dislodged by the decline of prices which was allowed to occur. The selling was concentrated in character, the bulk of it coming from a few stock exchange houses, which have often acted for western capitalists, some of whom had become prominent in the steel trade before the formation of the United States Steel corporation and have been relegated to the background since the rise of that corporation. The selling attributed to this source was enormous, not only of the United States Steel stocks themselves, but of the railroad stocks which led the slump. The immediate cause of the weakness of this group was the reported announcement by the Atchison authorities that freight rates would be cut in the Chicago-Missouri river territory July 15. As the railroads in this territory comprise the principal properties supposed to have been brought into community of interest, and as there has been a large speculation in them founded on this supposition, the hostility manifested by a cutting of rates made them peculiarly vulnerable. They led the decline all day, with only occasional straggling rallies on covering by bear traders. In the final break St. Paul fell an extreme 10%, Missouri Pacific 8, Union Pacific 7%, Atchison 6%, and United States Steel, which had offered some resistance during the day, suddenly dropped 4 points under very heavy offerings. While the general market was less acutely affected, there were some very sharp losses recorded among the New York public utilities, the most prominent industrials and the eastern trunk lines and coals. The declines in these ranged from 3 to 7 points in the principal cases, and the market closed in a semi-demoralized condition. The call loan rate was offered down from 8 per cent in the morning to 2 per cent at the close, without relieving the weakness of the stock market. Rumors of financial difficulties could not be traced to any reliable source, nor could anything be learned to justify them. Growing uneasiness was expressed over the requirements of the money market for the coming crop and a doubt whether there would be any considerable reflux on funds to New York previous to the crop movement.

BRICKLAYER ATTACKED BY ONE OF HIS HELPERS.

Struck on the Head With a Heavy Piece of Gas Pipe and Badly Hurt.

Sebring, July 9.—Thomas Cavanaugh, a bricklayer, employed at the new pottery in course of construction, was murderously assaulted yesterday afternoon by A. E. Larkins, a helper.

Both were at work on one of the kilns and Cavanaugh asked Larkins to wheel his brick a little nearer to the kiln. Larkins became enraged and, picking up a piece of gas pipe several feet long, rushed at Cavanaugh and struck several blows at him without effect. Finally he succeeded in landing a heavy blow on Cavanaugh's head, felling him to the ground senseless.

The blow was rather a glancing one, and cut a gash three or four inches long, laying bare the skull, and it is probable that this alone saved Cavanaugh's life.

After dealing the murderous blow Larkins immediately left his work and headed toward Alliance. The police of that city were notified to watch for him, but he has not yet been apprehended. He claims to be a reformed gambler and was supposed to be deeply religious since his reformation. He posed as a Bible scholar, but has an uncontrollable temper.

Cavanaugh's injuries are of a severe nature, but it is believed he will recover.

IN PLAINTIFF'S FAVOR

Case of Martha Blair Vs. Emma Hanlon And Jane Nubian Decided.

Before Justice McLane this morning the long drawn-out suit in which Martha Blair, of Wellsville, sought to regain possession of a piano which she had sold on the installment plan to Emma Hanlon and Jane Nubian, of this city, was tried by a jury.

Attorneys F. E. Lones and G. Y. Travis represented the plaintiff and defendants, respectively. Both lawyers confined their arguments chiefly to quotations from the statutes and made strong appeals to the jury. After considering the case about half an hour, the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. The costs of the suit amount to about $30, as this was the second time it was tried, the jury in the first trial disagreeing.

When Hurry Was the Fashion.

The following extract from the London Times of May 14, 1801, gives an interesting picture of the good old days: "It is now the high fashion to run, or at least to trot, through the streets at a rate of six miles an hour. A running walk is absolutely necessary for any young man who has the least pretension to ton. You must lounge in a hurry and saunter with expedition. It is an old proverb, the more haste the worst speed, but Bond street daily shows us the more hurry the less to do. When we see our idle youths riding race horses, walking for wagers or boxing for fame, we must agree with Horace that 'strenua nos exercet inertia.'"

Ceaseless Growth of the Ears.

The systematic examination of more than 40,000 pairs of human ears in England and France has resulted in some interesting conclusions. For one thing, it is ascertained that the ear continues to grow in the later decades of life. In fact, it appears never to stop growing until death. A woman who has small, shell-like ears at 20 years of age will be very apt to possess medium sized ears at 40 years and large ears at 60. — Saturday Evening Post.

A Puzzler.

Lady Passenger—Do you know, captain, I have never been able to understand how you find your way across the ocean?

Captain—Why, by the compass. The needle always points to the north.

Lady Passenger—Yes, I know, but supposing you want to go south?—Glasgow Times.

Just a Newspaper Headliner Mumbling From Force of Habit.

The young man with the haggard look sat in the rear car of an elevated train, staring and staring at one of the advertisements.

"English beauty shoes," he mumbled to his companion. "That's what he says."

"Hm, hm," the haggard man replied. "Beautiful shoes from England?"

"That's only three words. You've got to have four, you know."

A compassionate old man looked up from his newspaper.

"What's the matter with your friend?" he asked. "Is the chap suffering from delirium tremens?"

"Oh, no," the man addressed replied assuringly. "You see, he's just through with his night's work on a morning newspaper. He's a headline writer, you know, and after a fellow has scribbled off headlines of 23 letters and spaces for about eight hours steady he contracts that habit and can't get over it. Every advertisement, every scrap of paper he sees for several hours afterward until his mind gets rested—well, he begins to count the letters and spaces and turn the wording into a headline that will fit. It isn't exactly delirium tremens. It's something worse. The headlines of 23 letters and spaces go wriggling around in that poor overworked brain much worse than snakes."—Chicago Chronicle.

The Harvard library numbers among its treasures an autograph of Milton and a copy of "Pindar" annotated in Milton's own handwriting, with marginal notes in Greek and Latin. Both of these rarities were bequeathed to the university by Charles Sumner.

The "Pindar" is dated 1620 and was doubtless used by Milton during his stay at Cambridge university. At the end he has added an alphabetical index in manuscript, occupying two closely written pages of all the authors cited in his notes, with references to the pages in which their names occur.

Milton's autograph is found in the pages of an autograph album or visitors' book kept, according to a custom common in the sixteenth century, by a Neapolitan nobleman, Camillus Cardoyn by name, who resided in Geneva from 1608 to 1640, where Milton, apparently, visited him. Another autograph in this same album among the hundreds which it contains is that of Thomas Wentworth, the unfortunate Earl of Stafford. Milton's signature is dated Jan. 10, 1639, and is appended to a Latin motto—"Travel changes one's sky, but not one's mind," it may be freely rendered and a quotation from his own "Comus."

The most notable Milton manuscript known to exist is a little book now owned by Trinity college, Cambridge, England, which contains the poet's copies of his so called minor poems, including "L'Allegro" and "Il Penseroso." In this country, however, it is said that the only original memorials of the great author of "Paradise Lost" are to be found in these two time stained volumes in the possession of the Harvard library.
